Drug testing put on hold

By Andy Siering
Staff writer

QUAD CITIES — Casper Nighohossian, city attorney for both Madison and Venice, is being cautious in drafting an ordinance providing for unannounced drug testing of city employees in both communities.

The Venice City Council instructed Nighohossian three weeks ago to draft the ordinance. Council members and Mayor Tyrone Echols said they would be the first to take the drug tests.

The next week, Madison Mayor John Bellcoff asked him to bring the ordinance before the Madison City Council when he had it finished.

But Nighohossian is finding the drug testing issue a sticky business.

"There are questions of statutory and constitutional law," Nighohossian said.

He said he would ask the Venice council to be more specific about certain aspects of what it wants. "They're going to have to give me guidance," he said.

"You're dealing with elected officials, appointed officials, new employees, present employees, costs (of testing) ... how you're going to deal with it if the problem exists. There are no simple solutions when you try to draft this thing."

Mark Goldenberg, city attorney for Granite City, knows what Nighohossian is going through. He went through it two years ago in researching a drug-testing ordinance for the city.

And he expects to go through it again soon, maybe next year.

"I suspect Granite City will not be far behind" in implementing a drug-testing policy, Goldenberg said.

He said Granite City could institute drug testing of its employees right now if it would do so only in the case of employees it had reason to suspect of drug use.

In talking to union business agents, he had not got a feeling the unions would fight testing in suspicious cases, but would fight random, unannounced testing — which was what Granite City wanted to do.

"That's what stopped us last time," Goldenberg said.

He said Granite City would probably try to negotiate the drug-testing issue into a new set of labor contracts due for negotiation next year.

Feds raid clubs

By Jim Corey
Staff writer

BROOKLYN — A 10-month investigation by state and federal officials led to raids at 12 entertainment-related places, five arrests and a series of document seizures Tuesday.

Visited in rapid succession were four St. Clair County night clubs featuring topless dancers and three St. Clair County massage parlors, all seven allegedly operated by P.T.'s Inc., two other Metro East sites; one location in Colorado; and two locations in Indiana.

The Metro East raids began at 2 p.m. Tuesday with the Illinois State Police, the FBI and the Internal Revenue Service seizing financial and employee records and filing several prostitution charges.

The FBI and IRS also raided P.T.'s national headquarters in Indianapolis and two night clubs in Indianapolis.

Documents were seized at P.T.'s Illinois regional headquarters, 7513 West Main St., Belleville, and at the home of P.T.'s regional manager, Art Feele, on Sundre Court in Belleville.

Campaign cost Cruse $8 a vote

By Mike Myers
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — Mayor Von Dee Cruse spent $8.38 a vote to get elected in 1987, while Mac Warfield spent $7.03 a vote in a losing effort.

That appears to be the "bottom line" of the state campaign contribution and expenditure reports filed with Madison County Clerk Evelyn Bowles.

The 14-page report for Friends for Von Dee, filed July 31 by campaign treasurer Mark Goldenberg, shows total expenditures of $43,698.46 and total receipts of $45,227.66.

The 16-page report for Friends of Mac Warfield, filed July 11 by treasurer Sam Wolf, shows total expenditures of $27,591.70 and total receipts of $29,664.99.

More races profiled Sunday

Mayor Cruse received 5,025 votes to gain re-election, and Superintendent of Streets Warfield received 3,921 in finishing second for mayor.

Perhaps the strangest entry in all 30 pages is the $125 given by Warfield, former Madison County Democratic chairman, to the Madison County Republican Central Committee.

"I bought an ad in some book," Warfield said. "Bob Barton (a Republican real estate broker in Granite City) asked me to and I said, 'You've got to be kidding.'

"But Bob was working for me in the campaign and he really wanted me to, so, you know me — Good Old Mac I went ahead and did it for him."

Cruse said he hadn't seen the report and couldn't believe his campaign really cost that much. "I didn't know I could raise that kind of money."

"I believe if you're running for office, you have an obligation to get your message out to the people. That's expensive."

Cruse said he remembered Warfield running a lot more ads in the newspaper than he did, but figures don't prove this out. Warfield spent $1,721.74 less than Cruse on ads. (See COSTS, Page 8A)

Dortch pleads guilty to fraud

By Andy Siering
Staff writer

CHARLOTTE, N.C. — Former Granite City and televangelist Richard Dortch pleaded guilty to fraud in federal court Tuesday. He was charged with conspiracy in connection with charges arising from his activities at the PTL Club television ministry.

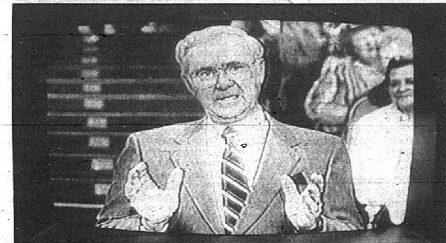

Dortch, 53, was the No. 2 man at PTL and headed the teleministry for 40 days after Jim Bakker was forced out following the Jessica Hahn sex scandal.

Under terms of a plea agreement reached between his lawyers and federal prosecutors, Dortch will testify against Bakker at the latter's fraud and conspiracy trial, scheduled for the end of August.

Dortch pleaded guilty to one count each of mail fraud, wire fraud by telephone, wire fraud by television and conspiracy, one of his lawyers said.

Prosecutors agreed to ask the sentencing judge to dismiss 20 other charges against Dortch, who could face a maximum sentence of 10 years in prison and a $500,000 fine.

The agreement also said that Dortch could be asked to make restitution.

Richard Dortch soon after he took over PTL

The case grew out of a 16-month federal jury investigation of the PTL Club.

Former PTL leaders were charged in a 24-count indictment with diverting more than $4 million in PTL money to themselves. Two other PTL leaders, brothers James and David Taggart, were convicted of tax evasion recently.

Dortch was reared in Granite City on Myrtle Avenue and graduated from Granite City High School. He attended First Assembly of God and later became pastor of the Edwards Street Assembly of God now the abundant Life Christian Center — in Edwardsville.

Dortch became Illinois superintendent before Sept. 1. (See DORTCH, Page 8A)

'Fighting back' drug initiative launched

By Valerie Evenden
Staff writer

COLLINSVILLE — Action was initiated on a countywide scale Tuesday morning to reduce drug and alcohol abuse within Madison County.

More than 100 business executives, labor leaders, representatives from law enforcement agencies, school, social services, religious and elected officials gathered at the Collinsville Holiday Inn to discuss methods that would best support what has been dubbed "Fighting Back."

Reducing the tragedies caused by illegal drugs and alcohol abuse, and helping to prevent such tragedies that overwhelm individuals and their families are the focus of the "Fighting Back" program, said William D. Swanson, vice president and general manager of the Granite City Division of National Steel Corp.

Swanson said, "Granite City Steel is highly supportive of this project and we hope you will be, too."

"We need to fight back, and you being here today demonstrates that communities in this county are ready to fight back and be selected for funding through a Fighting Back grant," he said.

Swanson and Granite City Steel hosted the breakfast meeting to launch the program.

Ben W. Johannpeter, president of the Tri-Cities Area United Way and manager of public affairs for Granite City Steel, will serve as Madison County Task Force chairman, Swanson announced.

James E. Long, executive director of the Illinois Alcoholism and Drug Abuse Association, Springfield, was guest speaker.

Long's group led the way to the Illinois Department of Alcohol and Drug Abuse being elevated to cabinet level in the state government.

"Our organization is working hard toward a better, sounder, appropriate public policy. We already have helped to toughen DUI laws and laws for drug trafficking," Long said.

"You are here because you know the problem exists here."

"All of us have known someone with an alcohol or drug abuse problem, whether it's a close friend, a neighbor or a

Area well represented

COLLINSVILLE — More than 100 people attended the "Fighting Back" meeting Wednesday hosted by Granite City Steel at Collinsville Holiday Inn.

Area leaders from business, labor, government, law enforcement, schools and social service agencies were present.

Among the participants were: Granite City Mayor Von Dee Cruse, Madison Mayor John Bellcoff, Madison County Board Chairman Nelson Hagnauer, School Superintendent Gib Walmsley of Granite City.

co-worker. We have to overcome the feeling that we can't change the attitude toward drugs and alcohol. We can," Long said.

"I want to challenge you to use your talents, time and influence and lead by example. Get involved and don't leave it to the other guy."

"The social services are overwhelmed. This is everyone's problem and this is your fight," Long said.

"Make a pledge of your time and energy today. You have no other option, because fighting back makes sense economically and socially," he said.

State Sen. Frank Watson, R-Greenview, who was singled out by Long as being a concerned and helpful legislator, was present at the meeting.

Each person attending was asked to make a formal commitment to give high priority to the

Alleged hair-pulling nets battery charge

TV, VCR, oven stolen

Larry Howland of the 2300 block of Lincoln Avenue reported Sunday that a burglar had broken into his home by forcing the rear door and taken a television valued at $125, a video cassette recorder worth $300 and a microwave oven valued at $99.

Stereo speakers taken

Judy Cann of the 2100 block of Delmar Avenue reported Sunday that a burglar had broken into her apartment and taken two stereo speakers.

Battery with pipe alleged

Richard Ado Cigelske, 31, of the 1300 block of Kirkpatrick homes was arrested Sunday and charged with disorderly conduct and battery as the result of an alleged incident at 29th Street and Washington Avenue.

Carson E. Wallace, 58, of the 3100 block of W. Chain of Rocks Road told police he was driving his truck on Washington Avenue when Cigelske, driving another truck, forced him onto the curb and then blocked him with the truck.

Cigelske then allegedly went up to Wallace's truck and swung what appeared to be a section of pipe into the cab, striking Wallace in the face. Wallace went to St. Elizabeth Medical Center for treatment. Cigelske was released on $104 cash bail.

Man arrested for battery

James Robert Cozine, 36, of the 2800 block of Pershing was arrested Sunday on a charge of battery after he allegedly punched Tommie B. Murray, 19, of the 2900 block of Pershing, in the face.

2 Arrested as disorderly

Perry Joseph Stanley, 20, of the 700 block of 27th Place was arrested Sunday and charged with assault and disorderly conduct. Jeffrey Lynn Tindall, 19, of the 2500 block of Circle Drive was arrested at the same time and charged with disorderly conduct.

Michael S. Lalich, 27, of the 2300 block of Arnold Drive told police Stanley and Tindall entered a yard in the 2400 block of Grand Avenue and started yelling profanity at him. He alleged Stanley then threatened him.

Bicycle thefts continue

A mid-summer wave of bicycle thefts is continuing with reports of seven incidents involving 10 bicycles being received by police Aug. 3.

Darla Bauer of the 2100 block of Amos Avenue said thieves removed the handlebars on a boy's GT Performer bicycle, which had been chained to the banisters on the rear stairs. The thieves left the handlebars behind while stealing the rest of the bike. The 20-inch white machine was valued at $300.

A candy-apple red Roadmaster bicycle worth $100 was stolen from the 800 block of Kirkpatrick Homes, said Nora Chancellor of the 2900 block of Kirkpatrick.

Two bicycles were taken from the Cheryl Grasse residence in the 3300 block of Westchester Drive. The missing bikes were a red, 10-speed racing bike with a black seat and a grey Kent Track Climber bicycle with red and black handle grips.

A chrome bicycle worth $150 was stolen from a porch at the home of Michael E. Wood in the 2800 block of Victory Drive. The machine had white mag wheels and a black seat.

Two bicycles were taken from the rear of a pickup truck parked in the 2300 block of East 25th Street, it was reported by Phillip Gaudreault of the 1700 block of Courtenay Boulevard. Each was worth about $100.

Two white spoke wheels and tires worth $80 were stolen from a girl's bicycle which was chained in the rear yard at the home of Terry Means Sr. in the 1200 block of Kirkpatrick Homes.

A nickel-plated Mongoose bicycle with a blue seat and white wheels, valued at $150, was stolen from the rear yard at the home of Joyce L. Church in the 2300 block of East 24th Street.

Girl, 7, summons police

A 7-year-old girl called police July 25 and told them a strange man was in her apartment in the 2100 block of Edison Avenue. When police arrived, she wouldn't or couldn't let them in. Officers broke in and found that someone had broken in through the back door of the apartment.

They searched an upstairs apartment and found Richard Overturf, 31, of Granite City hiding in a closet under some clothes. A warrant was obtained charging Overturf with burglary.

Missouri authorities are seeking extradition for allegedly violating parole jurisdiction. A second man found in the apartment was not charged.

The girl, whose parents are said to have left her home all day, was placed in the care of the Illinois Division of Children and Family Services. Her parents have not been charged.

Robbed of $340 in motel

Jamie Phelps, 28, of Marion, Ill., told police he met an unknown man July 24 in Bruno D's tavern, 1830 Cleveland Blvd., and took him back to his room at the Granite City Lodge, where Phelps fell asleep. When he awoke, he found he was missing $340 and an MCI phone card.

$8,300 computer stolen

Officials at Granite City Steel reported that someone stole an $8,300 IBM computer from a room at the Blast Furnace Division. The theft occurred between 4 p.m. July 21 and 9 a.m. July 22.

Burglar steals stereo

A stereo system valued at $250 was taken in a burglary at the apartment of Sheila M. Williams in the 200 block of Madison Avenue, she reported Saturday.

The intruder also overturned furniture, and tipped over the refrigerator. Food was thrown about the rooms and lipstick was used to write an obscene message on a wall, a report said.

Microwave, TVs gone

Several items were taken in a burglary at the home of Skylar Y. Haines in the 400 block of West 3rd Street, where the burglar forced a rear door to gain entry and ransacked a bedroom.

Missing from the dwelling were a microwave oven valued at $359, a video cassette recorder worth $299, a 19-inch color television worth $259, a cordless telephone valued at $89 and a 13-inch color television worth $159, Haines reported Aug. 2.

Auto burglary

Carl Graham of the 1400 block of Third Street reported Aug. 3 that a radio, valued at $200, was taken from his parked Chevrolet van. A door and a wing window were pried to get inside the vehicle.

Battery alleged

Abigail Heard, 23, of the 200 block of West Third Street, reported Sunday that a former male friend struck her in the face while she was seated in a car at West Second and Jackson streets.

Heard managed to get away from the assailant and ran from the scene, she told police. The victim sustained a bump on the side of her head and scratches on both arms, a report said.

Microwave missing

Wae Wimberly of the 100 block of Grenzer Hofmes reported Tuesday that a thief entered her residence and stole a microwave oven.

$200 welder stolen

A 225-amp Lincoln arc welder valued at $200 was stolen from the garage of Louis Petrosky in the 1000 block of Washington Avenue, he reported Monday.

Concrete lion gone

A 30-inch concrete statue of a lion weighing about 100 pounds was stolen from the front steps at the home of Jim Riskovsky in the 700 block of Iowa Street, he reported Saturday.

U-Haul dolly gone

A dolly owned by U-Haul Corp. was stolen from inside a U-Haul truck parked at Fourth and State streets, it was reported Monday by Arden Swain of Granite City.

Madison police

Apartment burglary

In a burglary at the apartment of Shirley R. Grosse in the 1500 block of Third Street, reported Monday, a 19-inch color television with a remote control valued at $150 and a Canon Gafte Television selector box with a remote control device were taken, she reported.

Cases of oil stolen

Forty cases of Motorcraft motor oil were stolen from a sealed trailer parked at St. Louis Distributors, 10 Fox Drive, it was reported Monday by Bill Dunham, who said the seal on the trailer had been broken.

A panel on an overhead door to a loading dock also was kicked in, but nothing appeared to be missing from the dock area, a report said.

Stereo radio stolen

An AM-FM stereo cassette radio valued at $250 was taken in the burglary of a 1979 Buick of Ralph C. Henderson of the 1400 block of Third Street, he reported Monday. Two windows were broken, using a cement block. A left rear window also was smashed, a report said.

Criminal damage alleged

A Granite City man was charged following an incident in the parking area at Ray's Lounge in the 1100 block of State Street at 9:15 p.m. Aug. 2.

David Lloyd Murphy, 24, of the 2000 block of Wayne Avenue, was booked on four counts of criminal damage to auto. The charges related to reports by four patrons whose vehicles sustained damage to their bumpers on the north side of the lounge.

An officer followed a car occupied by Murphy going north on Madison Avenue and stopped the vehicle in the 1200 block after a witness alleged seeing a man in the parking area, allegedly cutting tires, and yelled at the person who fled from the scene.

Murphy was arrested after allegedly being identified by the witness, a report said.

Reporting damage were:

William D. Allen of the 4000 block of Lake Drive, Pontoon Beach, who said a tire valued at $125 was cut on his 1979 Buick; Mary E. Smith of the 4700 block of Vincent Avenue who had two tires worth $200 damaged on her 1994 Ford; Steven G. Meszaros of the 300 block of Illinois 203, who had two tires worth $150 cut on his 1986 Pontiac; and Robert P. Blumenfeld of the 1200 block of Madison Avenue, whose 1986 Chevrolet had damage to four tires valued at $650.

The windshield on Blumenfeld's car also was severely scratched, a report said.

House approves Metro Link funds

By Jason Moody
Staff writer

WASHINGTON — More than $70 million worth of funding for the Metro Link light rail project cleared the House of Representatives on Aug. 3, and area lawmakers now are focusing on Senate approval.

Illinois and Missouri senators have sent letters to the chairman of the appropriate committees, urging nearly $80 million for the light rail plan and $450,000 more for an alternative analysis study on extending the rail line to Belleville from its current Illinois terminus in East St. Louis.

The House bill already provides funds for the alternative study on the Belleville route, virtually assuring the city will be the target of an extension if Congress gives a green light to the project, according to several sources.

The East-West Gateway Coordinating Council, a regional planning agency, is near completion of its own study comparing the feasibility of routes to Alton, Granite City, Edwardsville and Belleville.

"Local studies have shown that (the Belleville corridor) is the best one that could support sufficient ridership," said a spokesman for Sen. Alan Dixon,

D-III. "About 20 percent of the work force in St. Louis originates on the Illinois side of the river along this route."

The funding provision for Metro Link was attached to a major transportation appropriations bill that was passed in the House unchanged from what was approved in committee last month.

Similar legislation pending in the Senate has not yet cleared committee and won't come up for a vote until after the August recess, Dixon's spokesman said.

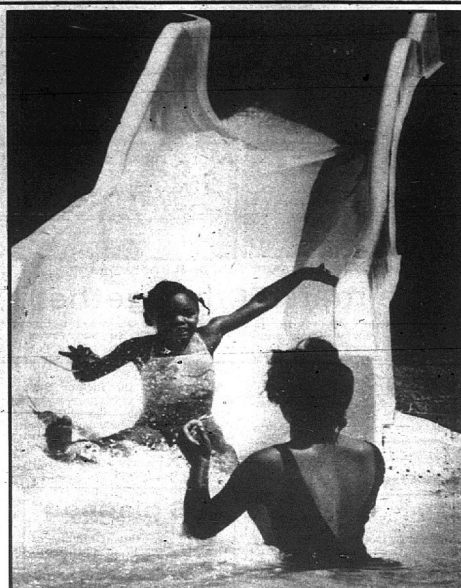

However, an aide to Rep. Jerry Costello, the Democrat from Belleville who pushed for the legislation in the House, said it is unlikely the Senate bill would differ significantly from the House bill.

Since federal funding began in 1984, the U.S. government has provided $150 million for the light rail line—$133 million short of its estimated cost. The 18-mile line with 20 stations is expected to be completed by 1993.

An extension route into Missouri also had been under consideration, but all the parties involved agreed the Belleville route was the most feasible.

"It's very unusual to have senators from two different states sign off on a project like this," Dixon's spokesman said.

END OF THE ROAD: Although this wasn't her first time, or nor last, down the water slide, 6-year-old Brandi New, some looks less than thrilled about the end of her trip. She was among children taking advantage of the slide at Lee Park in Venice as temperatures soared into the high 90s last week.

Briefly

Road rules class Aug. 16

Secretary of State Jim Edgar, in cooperation with Granite City Council of Senior Citizens, is offering a Rules of the Road Review Course for all citizens in the Granite City area.

The purpose of the course is to help applicants pass the Illinois Drivers License renewal examination. It updates drivers on the current rules of the road, explains the vision and the driving ability examinations, and prepares applicants for the general written and road sign examination.

The Rules of the Road Review Course will be held at Granite City Township Building, 2060 Delmar, on Wednesday, Aug. 16 from 9 to 11 a.m.

The course is free to everyone, any age, who wishes to attend. For more information, please contact Clyde Myers at 876-3981.

UFO network meeting set

Those with a curiosity in extraterrestrials or "flying saucers" may want to attend a meeting of the Mutual U.F.O. Network.

The network will meet at 5 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 12 at Sonny and Char's Restaurant in Collinsville. Tom Stulz, state director of Illinois will meet with M.U.F.O.N. members and officers from the greater St. Louis area.

Stulz, and other M.U.F.O.N. officers, will discuss the latest occurrences in the U.F.O. field including a report on the national symposium recently held in Las Vegas. As always, the meeting is open to the public.

If you have any questions about the meeting, see a U.F.O. or have a "lost time" incident, contact Forest Crawford, State Section Director for M.U.F.O.N., at 345-0554.

Moccasins class planned

COLLINSVILLE — Pablita, a Southwest Indian artist from Sacramento, Calif., will conduct a workshop on Aug. 12 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on the history and construction of Woodland moccasins at Cahokia Mounds State Historic Site.

Pablita, whose ancestry includes both the Jicarilla Apache and Taso Pueblo Indians, is known for both her traditional and contemporary Indian beadwork. She is Curriculum Developer of Indian Programs for the Sacramento School District.

The day-long workshop will include a lecture on the styles, color combinations and bead designs of moccasins worn by various North American Indian tribes. Participants will also construct a pair of Woodland-style moccasins.

Materials, including brain-tanned deer skins, will be provided. Advance registration and $40 tuition is required. Call the site at 348-5160 to register.

Cahokia Mounds State Historic Site, administered by the Illinois Historic Preservation Agency, is located near Collinsville, off Interstates 255, 55/70 and Illinois 111 on Collinsville Road.

St. Louis University to offer Ph.D. Program in Nursing

ST. LOUIS — The School of Nursing at St. Louis University will soon offer a doctoral program in nursing.

The program approved by the University's Board of Trustees in June is scheduled to begin its first class in the fall of 1990.

Only 45 universities in the United States offer doctoral programs in nursing. This will be the first in Missouri.

Ph.D. prepared nurses will advance the quality of patient care. Because they will be prepared to approach the practice of nursing scientifically, they can make significant differences in quality and cost of health care and in methods of care delivery," stated Joan Hrubetz, Ph.D., dean of St. Louis University School of Nursing.

In 1980, the Department of Health and Human Services projected that, by 1990, the demand for nurses with doctoral degrees would stand at 14,000. At the present rate, the estimated supply would only be 5,000 nurses. St. Louis University School of Nursing began looking into the feasibility of a doctoral program at that time.

Studies have shown that, in addition to a shortage of nurses who provide direct care, there is also a shortage of nurses who are prepared for teaching, research and administration.

Irene Riddle, Ph.D., professor of nursing, has been named director of the doctoral program.

"Our doctoral program will continue our tradition of excellence in nursing education," said Riddle. "The program will prepare nurse scholars who will expand the knowledge base for nursing practice. Graduates of the program will focus their careers in leadership positions in nursing research, practice and education."

Shop 'n Save employees OK new contract

By Ed Gurney
Staff writer

Employees at the Collinsville and Belleville stores voted Aug. 2.

The stores are owned by Wetzel Foods.

"One of the biggest things we got is job security," Caumiant said. "They guaranteed 40-hour jobs on a store-by-store basis."

There are currently 63 full-time jobs in seven stores. Under terms of the contract, employees at the Collinsville and Belleville stores voted Aug. 2. Employees of the other stores voted Aug. 1.

The approximately 210 employees who voted ratified the three-year agreement by about a 30-vote margin, according to Ed Caumiant of Local 881 of the United Food and Commercial Workers.

The agreement, retroactive to July 28, covers about 350 clerks at Shop 'n Save stores in Granite City, Collinsville, Belleville, Alton, Wood River, East Alton and Jerseyville.

Each of the seven stores will get another 40-hour employee in each of the first two years of the agreement. In the third year, two more 40-hour jobs will be established somewhere in Metro East, bringing the eventual total to 79, Caumiant said.

At Schnucks and National stores, where Local 881 also bargains, 40-hour jobs fluctuate based on sales, he said.

"We didn't get much of a pay raise," Caumiant said. "Our Shop 'n Save people were ahead of National and Schnucks people. We maintained them ahead, but not much."

The most experienced clerks will receive raises to $11.30 an hour this year and $11.40 an hour next year from the old rate of $11.20. In addition, those clerks will receive $250 bonuses in each of the first two years of the agreement.

Diana L. Anderson, daughter of Leonard (Andy) and Doris Ann Anderson of Collinsville, and Michael L. Bollmann, son of Walter and Joan Bollmann of Campbell Hill, Ill., have announced their engagement and forthcoming marriage.

Anderson is a 1977 graduate of Collinsville High School and attended Belleville Area College. She is employed by Veterans Canteen Service Finance Center in St. Louis as a certifying officer/accounting technician and also as a bookkeeper for Drs. Elettner, Murphy and Heberer in Cahokia.

Bollmann is a 1978 graduate of Trico High School in Campbell Hill, and in 1980 earned a degree in auto body from Olney Central in Olney. He is employed by the Maternal Correctional Center in Chester, Ill., as a correctional officer.

The couple is planning an Oct. 21 wedding at St. Peter Evangelical United Church of Christ in Granite City.

Shower held

A wedding shower was recently held for Annette Shirley, daughter of Richard and Michelle Shirley of Trenton, Ill., at the clubhouse of Wade and Hazel Rollins.

Attending were: Doris Pekarik, Dot Brewer, Linda Stearns, Mildred Collins, Carolyn Campos, Pat Mathison, May Shirley, bride's grandmother; Norma Buccheim, Lynette Burnett, Julie Burnett, Carrie Brown, Bebe Dumont, Mary Lee Garian, Helen Toncoff, Delores Yates, Carol Sorce, Sophie Kraus, Liz Jeffries, JoAnn Terrell, Becky O'Neil, Mary Vrenick, Darlene Laub, Mildred Kraus, grandmother of the groom; Lucie Steckle, Lori Bicanic, Marge Burdge, June Van Horn, Sharon Orwig, Bobbie Jo and Cynthia Kraus, Michelle Shirley, bride's mother; and Joanne Kraus, groom's mother.

The honoree will become the bride of Douglas Ward Kraus, son of Frank L. and Joanne Kraus of Granite City, on Aug. 6 in Las Vegas, Nev.

Honorees were Mrs. William Burckey, Mrs. Clarence Haman, Mrs. Charles Weiss, Mrs. Richard Moore, Mrs. Robert A. Kraus and Mrs. Wade Rollins.

Tina Barton and Todd Holland

Barton-Holland

Tina Marie Barton, daughter of William Barton and Peggy Hardesty, and Todd Benjamin Holland, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Holland, of O'Fallon, Ill., have announced their engagement and forthcoming marriage.

Barton, of O'Fallon, is a 1984 graduate of O'Fallon Township High School. She is employed by Arthur A. Smith, M.D., of O'Fallon.

Holland is also a 1984 graduate of O'Fallon Township High School. He is employed by Flip Phillips Construction Co., Shiloh, Ill., as a carpenter.

The couple is planning a Sept. 23 wedding at St. Nicholas Catholic Church in O'Fallon.

Sorority takes trip

On Thursday, July 20, Bea Brackett, Delores Dortch, Lora Mae Lombardi, Evelyn Tolliver and Imogene Forrest of the Laureate Alpha Gamma Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority and their guests, Marilyn Tolliver and Allison Tolliver, took a trip along the Great River Road.

Their first stop was Alton's antique district located along Broadway in the downtown area. After browsing through the shops, the group continued their trip on to Grafton to the lodge at Pere Marquette State Park for lunch. After lunch, they were invited to join a tour of the newly-renovated building.

On the return trip, a stop was made at the Country Corner craft store in Grafton for fresh homemade fudge and a shopping trip through the store.

Jim and Theresa Kelley and daughter, Jennifer, of Maryville Road, have returned from a two-week vacation. They visited Mrs. Kelley's aunt and uncle, Pat and Denver Payne, in Springfield, Mo., visited Branson, Mo., and went swimming at the Whitewater Complex near Branson. They went sightseeing at Osage Beach, Mo., then on to Eureka Springs, Ark., to visit several points of interest including Pivotal Rock which was featured on "Ripley's Believe It or Not." Leatherwood Lake and Beaver Dam over the White River.

The Kelleys returned home in time to host a 14th birthday celebration for their daughter, Jennifer. Ice cream and cake were served to several friends and relatives. The honoree spent the night with her girlfriend, Robyn Hartline.

Others attending the party were: Sherry Devors, Rina Nixon of Danville, Ill., Robyn Hartline, Jack and Lucy Colbert, Jeff and Missy Hickam and son, Tommy, and Nancy Colbert and daughters, Shelly and Mandy.

The Chouteau Township Senior Citizens held their second annual barbecue and luau on July 27 at the Township Social Center. Everyone dressed in Hawaiian attire for the occasion received a lei as they entered the hall. The hall was decorated with fish nets, sea shells and sea animals. A bowl of floating flowers decorated the serving table and fresh cut flowers surrounded the punch bowls. Fresh fruit was awarded as prizes.

Entertainment was provided by members of the organization who performed the hula dance dressed in muumukus and grass skirts. They included Lou Hall, Barbara Fulmer, Jert Schieb, Geraldine Rodgers, Ala Stewart, Dorothy Ashford, Olive Joyner, Mary Reed and Lucy Colbert. This was led by Cissie Pingel and Paula Ballew with Maxine Duniphan as coordinator and narrator.

The pork steaks, which were donated by Thomas Mortuary, were prepared by Club President LeRoy Slark, Zane Miller, Carl Aldridge and Ferd Segar. The fresh flower arrangement donated by Willis Flowers by Dana, were presented to Jessie Sayers in recognition of her 93rd birthday.

Approximately 90 members and guests attended.

The August meeting of the Garden Study Club was held at the home of Marie Oetken. Eight members and two guests were served a luncheon at noon.

Mary Stonum called the meeting to order and guests, Shirley Stallings and Nancy Morgan, were welcomed by the club members.

The Pledge of Allegiance and the club collect were said in unison. Helen Meyer held roll call with each answering to "Do you grow fresh flowers to make an arrangement with?"

On July 24, Stonum and Christine Hornberger represented the club by paying respects to the family of deceased Eleanor Cline at Mateer Funeral Home in Edwardsville. Cline was a past president of the Edwardsville Garden Club and was creative in arrangements for their club's annual June Rose Luncheon. A donation from the Garden Study Club was made to the American Heart Association in her memory.

On July 27, Clara Winter, Stonum and Hornberger cleaned weeds out of the herb and perennial beds at the Six-Mile Historical Museum. Winter and Stonum also transplanted three palm trees that were root bound for St. John's United Church of Christ in the entry foyer to the elevator entrance.

The 1989-90 yearbooks that are usually distributed in July were distributed at the August meeting as the July meeting of a trip to the Missouri Botanical Gardens was postponed until September because of the extreme heat.

A motion was made to enter Clara Winter's name into the Illinois Book of Honor. The program, a fresh floral arrangement, was given by Bonnie Rutkowski. Clara Winter brought fresh zinnias in assorted colors, Lythrum, feverfew and fern. Bonnie used the flowers to make an asymmetrical design in a silver vase.

THE LAW AND YOU

BY RICK REED
Attorney At Law

Let's assume that you are a spectator at a baseball game sitting in an unsecured seat, and you are hit by a batted ball. Can you recover damages from the batter and the baseball team for your injuries? Here you would probably be barred from recovery because of a doctrine known as assumption of the risk.

For this doctrine to apply, the injured person must have a knowledge of the risk involved and a willing acceptance of this risk and the danger. In Illinois, the defense of assumption of the risk is limited to situations where there is a contractual relationship between the parties or where the parties stand in the position of employer and employee. With regard to the contractual relationship situation, a common example is that of a person who has paid an admission fee for entry onto amusement or recreational premises. If he is injured in this setting, having full knowledge of the risk involved, then he cannot recover monetary damages.

One of the most notable cases involving a local man dealt with a pit crew member who was struck and injured by a car at a Granite City race track. The crew member was injured when a race car struck him soon after the restart of a race held by rain. When injured, the crew member was working about his twelfth time at the track. The evidence presented at trial indicated that he had signed a release form the first time he worked, although he had not read it.

The pit crew member was awarded a substantial sum of money by the jury. This award, however, was reversed by the Court of Appeals. The Appellate Court noted that the crewman had placed himself in a position on the track at an area where cars tended to leave the track and enter the infield. There also had been announcements warning people to stay away from the area where the crewman was injured.

The Court found that the crew member's mere participation in the races and his signature on the release indicated an awareness of the dangers and a willing acceptance of them. In this case, the crew member was unable to recover damages because he assumed the risk. It is apparent that this doctrine of assumption of the risk, which prevents the injured party from recovering damages, will be applied by the Courts on a case by case basis.

Smoking ban on airlines may be permanent

By Edward T. Hearn
Staff writer

WASHINGTON — The U.S. House of Representatives on Aug. 2 moved a step closer toward instituting a permanent smoking ban on all domestic airline flights of less than two hours.

Despite strong pressure from the tobacco lobby, the House effectively extended the smoking ban imposed in 1987 by attaching it to the new funding bill for the Department of Transportation.

The limited ban, sponsored by Rep. Richard Durbin, D-Springfield, Ill., was due to expire in April 1990 if it wasn't renewed.

"When we first proposed a permanent extension of this law at the beginning of this Congress, the tobacco lobby promised to kill it. They weren't able to," Durbin said after the 259-169 vote.

Spokesmen for the Tobacco Institute, the industry's chief Washington representative, were unavailable for comment. The lobby group paid $123,400 in congressional speaking fees in 1988, more than any other organization in the country, according to a study by the watchdog group Common Cause.

The smoking ban, which has been in effect for 15 months, covers about 80 percent of all domestic commercial flights. Recent polls show both smoking and nonsmoking passengers have indicated support for clean air in airplane cabins.

According to Federal Aviation Administration statistics, only 113 "enforcement actions" involving smoking violations were reported during the ban's first year, when more than 445 million people flew commercially. Federal penalties for smoking violations include fines up to $1,000. Tampering with bathroom smoke detectors calls for fines up to $2,000.

Suzanne Boyer

Boyer

Suzanne E. Boyer, 23, of Granite City died at 1:37 a.m. today, Aug. 10, 1989, at St. John Mercy Medical Center, St. Louis County, where she was taken after being involved in an auto accident in Wentzville.

The Missouri Highway Patrol said the car she was in was involved in a four-vehicle crash 12:25 a.m. today on Interstate 70 one-half mile east of Pierce Road in Wentzville.

The highway patrol said three cars and a tractor-trailer were involved in a multiple crossover accident.

Miss Boyer was born in St. Louis and lived in Granite City her entire life. She was employed as a receptionist at Business Products, Inc., St. Louis, and worked part time at J & J Liquor Store on Marville Road.

She was a member of Holy Family Catholic Church.

She is survived by her mother, Bernadette (Young) Boyer of Granite City; seven brothers, Mark Boyer of Jefferson City, Mo., Patrick Boyer of High Ridge, Mo., and Jerome, Paul, Randall, Roger and Russell Boyer, all of Granite City; and four sisters, Jackie Sims of Lake St. Louis, Jennifer Boyer of Manchester, Mo., and Margaret Webb and Julia Boyer, both of Granite City.

She was preceded in death by her father, Godfrey Boyer, who died in 1988.

Visitation will begin at noon Sunday at Thomas Memorial Mortuary (876-4321), 2205 Pontoon Road, where arrangements are pending. The family is requesting memorials in the form of Masses at Holy Family Church.

Ethington

Carl David E. Ethington, 43, died of a sudden heart attack at Boswell Hospital, San City, Ariz., Tuesday, Aug. 8, 1989.

Mr. Ethington was born in Wilshire, Ill., Sept. 15, 1945. He lived most of his life in Granite City, moving to the Phoenix area 17 years ago.

He is survived by his wife, Elizabeth Beryl Ethington, two daughters, Shannon Elizabeth and Jennifer Lynn Ethington, and one son, Brian David Ethington, all of Peoria, Ariz.; three brothers, Calvin D. and Glenn D. Ethington, both of Granite City, and Roy G. Ethington of Manassas, Va.; one sister Mrs. Alice Gibson of Granite City; and many nieces and nephews.

He was preceded in death by his parents, Richard C. and Alberta M. Ethington.

Memorial services will be held at the First United Methodist Church of Glendale, Ariz., Friday.

Hampton

Virginia T. (Turner) Hampton, 76, of Fairview Heights, formerly of Granite City, died at 12:31 p.m. Monday, Aug. 7, 1989, at Memorial Hospital in Belleville. She had been ill for some time.

Mrs. Hampton was born May 9, 1913, in West Virginia. She was a homemaker and a member of First United Presbyterian Church in Collinsville.

She is survived by her husband, Howard H. Hampton of Fairview Heights. She was preceded in death by her parents, Walter and Linda Turner, a brother, Walter N. Turner, and a sister, Elsie Turner.

Funeral services were held this morning at Herr Funeral Home in Collinsville with the Rev. Lloyd Shaw officiating. Burial was at Lake View Memorial Gardens in Belleville.

Lundak

Dale Norman Lundak, 66, of Granite City died at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday, Aug. 8, 1989, at St. Elizabeth Medical Center. He had been ill in health.

Mr. Lundak was born May 20, 1923, in Collinsville and had lived in Granite City for many years. He was a retired maintenance worker for Central Hardware and a member of St. John United Church of Christ (Evangelical and Reformed).

Preceding him in death were three brothers and one sister.

Survivors include one brother, Leo Lundak of Maryville, and several nieces, nephews, great-nieces and great-nephews.

Visitation will be held after 11 a.m. Friday at Herbert A. Kassaly Funeral Home, 515 Vandallia, Collinsville, where funeral services will be held at 1 p.m. Friday with the Rev. Don Sabbert officiating. Burial will be at Holy Cross Lutheran Cemetery in Collinsville.

Snedden

Maxine (Brinton) Snedden, 83, of Naperville, Ill., died at 2:55 a.m. Thursday, Aug. 10, 1989, at St. Elizabeth Medical Center. She had been in the hospital since July 22.

She had been a homemaker. Preceding her in death was her husband, Richard Snedden.

Survivors include one sister, Kathryn Smith of Naperville, and relatives, Dale and Mary Mullen of Granite City; one stepdaughter; two stepgrandchildren, and two stepgreat-grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held in Naperville, Ill., with burial in Mount Emblem Cemetery in Elmhurst, Ill., on Monday. Local arrangements were handled by DeVos Funeral Home, 2311 West Street and Cleveland Boulevard.

Turnbull

Ann (Lencic) Turnbull, 74, of Granite City, was pronounced dead at home at 8:35 a.m. Tuesday, Aug. 8, 1989, by Madison County Deputy Coroner Ed Morton. She had been under a doctor's care.

Mrs. Turnbull was born Oct. 31, 1915, in Madison and was a life-time resident of the Tri-Cities. She had worked for Swift and Co. in East St. Louis and was of the Catholic faith.

Costs

published in the three Granite City newspaper editions of East Side Publications: $5,902.22 to Cruse's $7,623.89.

Cruse listed $6,000 to pay "various campaign workers," while Warfield's report had no corresponding figures.

"I don't have to pay people to work for me," Warfield said. "Really, I had an awful lot of volunteers."

Cruse said: "I wish I knew how he did it."

Another big cost in both campaigns was postage. Cruse spent $3,654 and Warfield $2,616.75. Individual contributions to Cruse included $2,000 from Ross Construction Co., $500 from NESCO Steel Barrel Co., $500 from the Ralph Abrams Trust and $405 each from seven of his appointed city officials.

People

They joined other guests from Southern Illinois University, Alton; Bethalto, East Alton, Wood River, Collinsville, St. Louis, Edwardsville, Roxana, Greenville, Fairview Heights and Godfrey.

Among the others present were Madison County State's Attorney Chief Don Knight and Assistant Chief Ron Selph, Illinois State Police Capt. Bobby L. Henry, Madison County Sheriff Bob Churchich, Dennis Orsey, Illinois assistant attorney general.

Bob Dylan brings sound to fair

A mix of rock 'n' roll, country and the blues will rattle the Grandstand when songwriter-performer Bob Dylan belts out better than two decades of his music during his Aug. 19 appearance at the Illinois State Fair.

Tickets go on sale at 10 a.m. Friday, Aug. 21. All seats cost only $12. The addition of Dylan shows marks the completion of this year's Grandstand Line-Up, fair officials said.

Dortch

intendant of the Assemblies of God Church in 1970 and held authority over 260 congregations before resigning the position to join Bethalto, East Alton.

The Bakker-Hahn scandal — dubbed "Pearlygate" in the media — led to the downfall of Bakker and Dortch, both of whom were defrocked by the Assemblies of God in 1987. The indictments came later.

Since September 1987, Dortch has headed Life Challenge, a counseling agency in Clearwater, Fla., that helps other people caught up in scandal.

During a visit to Granite City at First Assembly of God Church on 24th Street and Grand Avenue, where he asked the pastor and the church elders to pray for him.

Ironically, the guilty plea came while the Assemblies of God were holding their bi-annual national convention in Indianapolis.

In an interview then with the Press-Record, Dortch said he knew he was under federal investigation, and told of getting phone calls from Chuck Colson, the former Richard Nixon aide convicted in the Watergate scandal. Colson became a born-again Christian after Watergate.

"Dortch," he said Colson told him, "don't do like I did. There's not a single verse in the Bible that says you have to volunteer information to a grand jury."

The campaigns of Township Supervisor Nellie Hugnauer, Township Assessor Darlene Laub and Treasurer Gail Valle each transferred $1,000 to Cruse. Cruse loaned the committee $5,000.

Warfield's individual contributions included $1,000 from Granite City attorney Greg Becker, $200 from CARPAC (Southern Illinois District of Carpenters) and contributions ranging from $150 to $250 from five other individuals. Other campaigns transferred in a total of $1,059 and Warfield loaned the committee $10,000.

Cruse raised $22,670 through the sales of tickets, mass contributions and other sales while Warfield raised $10,790.

Cruse gave a total of $440 to other campaigns. Warfield gave $775.

The women arrested were not danced at P.T.'s, although there have been cases in the past of dancers who turned to prostitution," Barrett said.

Brooklyn targets of raids

Barrett said law enforcement officers seized devices from a "so-called" torture chamber."

Persons arrested were: Lorie Lee Kessler, 26, of the 100 block of Douglas Street, Belleville, charged with prostitution and keeping a place of prostitution. She posted $200 cash bail.

Linda Gayle Hinton, 34, of the 300 block of E. Third St., O'Fallon, Pamela E. Whitney, 30, of St. Louis and Belinda Marie Gray, 35, of Fenton, Mo., each charged with prostitution, posting $100 bail each.

Tracy Marie Metz, 23, St. Louis, is found to be wanted on warrants alleging retail theft (possession), disorderly conduct and contempt of court. She posted $300.

It was a nationwide program and there will be tough competition to get the grants," said Lillian Douglas of Coordinated Youth Services.

"We had all the major employers here," Executive Director Jan Quanton of the Tri-Cities Area United Way said.

"It was great to see the police officers, businessmen, labor leaders and school and elected officials together. We're off to a good start," Quanton said.

Fund guidelines estimate inflation

EDWARDSVILLE — The Southern Illinois University Board of Trustees has approved guidelines necessary for development of the Fiscal Year 1991 Resource Allocation and Management Program (RAMP) for submission to the Illinois Board of Higher Education (IBHE) on Oct. 1.

The guidelines include increases of 12 percent for faculty and professional and administrative staff salaries and 15 percent for civil service personnel; general price items, 5 percent; utilities, 5 percent generally but 13 percent for electricity at SIU at Edwardsville; and library materials, 15 percent.

The plan also specifies funding needed to operate and maintain new space, $20,400 for SIUE and $468,600 for SIU at Carbondale.

The proposed operating budget would result in a 14.7 percent increase over the FY-90 base, which was projected at $233 million for the SIU system.

The total does not include a request for additional computing resources, which will be considered by the SIU Board in September along with expanded/improved program and special analytical study requests and other final RAMP documents.

Applying the decision rules would result in a budget request for new operating funds for SIUE of $9.3 million, or an increase of 14 percent; for SIUC, $25 million, or 15 percent; and for central administration of $210,500, or 10.5 percent.

University officers said adequate salary increases for faculty and staff would continue to be the top priority.

Studies conducted by the IBHE, the campuses, and the chancellor's staff indicate that major increases are needed for faculty and staff to be paid comparable to their respective counterparts at other universities.

New GC students must have proof of residency

Parents wishing to register a new Granite City school child will be required to furnish proof of residence.

Rent receipts, tax bills, or notarized letters stating that the family is living at a specific address will be accepted.

As school districts in surrounding areas experience financial difficulties resulting in limited services, officials anticipate that parents may attempt to enroll their child in District 9 schools to take advantage of local services.

District 9 faces loss of state aid and would have overcrowding conditions if non-resident students are permitted to attend its schools, officials said.

For more information, call the District 9 board office at 451-5800.

Students should apply soon for SIUE housing

Applications for single-student housing are now being accepted for the fall quarter at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

Named in national dean's list book

Kimberly L. Myracle of Granite City has been selected to receive recognition in the 12th annual edition of the National Dean's List for the 1988-89 school year.

A 1988 graduate of Granite City High School, Myracle is a sophomore majoring in elementary education at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

She is the daughter of Don and Joan Myracle of Granite City. The National Dean's List is the largest publication in the country recognizing academically gifted students selected by their college dean.

Trash City after junk in yards

By Mike Myers
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — Driving down an alley his apartment had completely cleaned up less than 48 hours before, City Inspector Vince Scrum had to dodge piles of junk.

"You want to take a picture?" he asked.

"It just looks like every place else," said Bud Gates, his assistant. "You could take one picture and you've seen the whole city."

"At least we know we've got job security," Scrum said.

Trash, derelict cars and trucks, and high weeds fill the major part of every day at the inspection department. The department has the power to issue citations, carrying fines, to every offender.

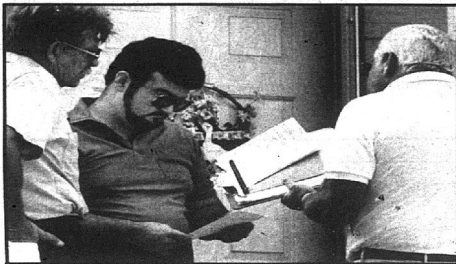

"But we try to work with people if we can," Scrum said. The department does issue citations, however, and Scrum and Gates had several to issue Aug. 1. Alderman Judy Whitaker, chairman of the Sanitation Committee, went along with them.

The first stop was 2109-11 Benton St. A huge junk pile dominated the back yard, its most prominent elements discarded major appliances.

"The first thing we do is see if an improvement has been made, even if we were there the day before," Scrum said. "This place belongs to Jerry Yeager. We've worked with him before and he's a pretty good guy. We don't expect any trouble."

"We've hauled away I don't know how much stuff for him in the past," Gates said.

Laidlaw, the city's contracted trash hauler, will only pick up some large items, but the sanitation department will arrange to pick up much of what

Jerry Yeager, center, gets a citation

Laidlaw won't.

But this is more than he can be expected to handle," Scrum said. "He's going to have to pay someone to haul it away this time. You can see how long it's been here by the way the weeds have grown up through the trash."

Jerry owns a bunch of rental property and we know what he's going to say: 'It's the tenants' trash.' He's had some real problems, we know, but we tell him we can't ticket the tenants, only the owner."

Scrum and Gates went to Yeager's house a few blocks away and he was given the citation. The inspection department sets a court date two or three weeks from the date of the citation. That day, the person enters a plea of either guilty or not guilty and the case is put on the docket.

Since it could be several months before the case actually is tried, Scrum said, he and Gates will monitor cleanup progress during the wait.

"We take pictures and they're going to bring their pictures, too," Scrum said. "Sometimes, the problem will be solved before we get to court, but more often they start cleaning up a day or two before they go to court."

The next citation was for Harry Kohn's house at 2127 Grand Ave. The back and side yards were dominated by three cars and two pickup trucks. None had been moved recently enough to disturb the weeds growing up around them.

The weeds were not quite tall enough to hide piles of junk throughout the yard.

Scrum said he usually doesn't issue a citation on the first visit to a property, but instead tries to solve the problem by issuing warnings. In this case, he said, the problem was so severe he decided faster action was needed.

Gates took pictures of the yard while Scrum filled out a citation for the trash and weeds and a citation for each of the vehicles. Then they went together to the front door.

After they introduced themselves, Scrum started reading the citations. As he did, they were joined on the front porch by several more people. Before Scrum was done, there was quite a crowd.

"You can see why we always go together," Gates said. "We didn't have any problems here, but you never know what you're getting into. I hate these long ones because it gives them more time to get mad."

"People either get mad or thank you," Scrum said. "We have a lot of people thank us, saying 'It's my husband's and I've been after him for a long time,' or 'I told my son to get rid of that thing.'"

The Kohns were issued citations for the weeds and junk and for the two trucks and one of the cars. Warnings were issued for the other two cars.

"They said two of the cars are running," Scrum said. "So I told them to move them around. The warning says seven days, but we'll drive by the day before and see if they've been moved before coming back on the seventh day."

The last citation, issued to Larry Cardin, was for a pile of junk in the alley behind the Cardin Carpet store on 18th Street. Scrum and Gates had a three-month pictorial history of junk piles there and there was another pile there when they drove by Aug. 1.

"It's better than sometimes, but it's still here," Scrum said. "Now we've got another problem down the alley with rats, and we've got people coming to put out poison."

When the cases come to court, Scrum said, he and Gates will be there along with Assistant City Attorney Susan Bacon. Scrum and Gates said they have some real horror stories about court, but think it's getting better.

"We've learned to really document," Scrum said. "We may have been there a hundred times, but this is the first time the judge has seen them. Now we keep track of who went there and what was done. And we take pictures. Lots of pictures."

The Inspection Department will soon have a full-time clerk for the first time and Scrum said the department will be able to put on paper a lot of information he and Gates have been keeping in their heads.

"We will remember getting a call and going to look at a place and talking to someone, but we haven't been keeping track of it on paper," he said. "Now that's going to change."

The city really is getting cleaned up, Scrum and Gates said, even if they don't always feel optimistic.

"We still run the Chamber (of Commerce) cleanup and the summer cleanup and at the same time we go block by block through the wards," Scrum said.

"We run through all the alleys about once a month. I think people are beginning to believe we're serious."

"If they don't, we'll see them in court."

... problems inside, too

By Mike Myers
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — Jerry Yeager, who was given a citation for junk outside 2109-11 Benton St., said he wants to make it clear that's not the whole story.

"That junk didn't just appear there," he said. "I took it out; it had to come from somewhere. All that junk was left in the building by tenants."

"It seems to me landlords are always getting a bad rap in the newspaper. Well, I want to tell you, there may be some bad landlords but there are bad tenants, too."

Yeager, who owns 40 rental units in Granite City, said he understands that only the property owner can be cited for junk. What he doesn't understand is why. Landlords, he said, have very little legal power when dealing with tenants.

He and his wife Jacqueline used a just-vacated four-apartment building they own in the 1700 block of Delmar Avenue as an example.

"The apartments were renovated between six and nine months ago."

"It was in good shape. The city inspected the apartments and issued occupancy permits, and you're not going to believe it now," Yeager said.

"You hear a lot of complaining about having to put down a deposit of first and last month's rent. I've got $800 in deposits on this building and the insurance inspector just told me there is $22,000 in damage just to the inside."

"You wouldn't believe the hours and hours we put into this place and now we've got to start all over," Jacqueline said.

The floors of all the apartments were covered with trash, garbage and insects. In the best of the apartments the carpeting, less than eight months old, was stained, ripped and filthy. In the worst, it wasn't there.

What appeared to have once been beds, chairs or couches had been abandoned in place. Stoves and refrigerators appeared to have never been cleaned. Kitchen cabinets were torn apart. The parts of walls where holes had not been punched were filthy.

In one apartment a hole had been reared through the floor: "A first for us," Jerry said.

"You wouldn't believe it's possible to bring in this much dirt in just nine months," Jacqueline said.

The Yeagers said going to small claims court is the only legal action they know to take and that doesn't do them any good.

"We've gotten I don't know how many awards and have never seen a dime," Jacqueline said. "One time I took pictures of a place like this down to City Hall and begged them to tell me what I could do about it. But they told me there was nothing they could do."

Jerry said he also has good tenants, and he said the building on Delmar wasn't his worst case, either.

"I had a good tenant call me and say, 'Jerry, you've got to do something about the people upstairs. We were eating dinner and maggots started falling through the ceiling.'"

"I went up there and found them living there with garbage a foot deep over the entire floor. I had to do something, so I got a snowshovel and bucket and started scooping up maggots. They called the police."

"The police came and told me I had to quit or they would charge me with criminal trespassing. The whole time, the tenant is standing there, banging on the wall with a club, and the police could only say they were sorry, but I was the only one breaking the law in this much dirt in just nine months."

Eviction is not an easy process, the Yeagers said, and the tenants have a lot of rights. Landlords, they said, don't seem to have any.

"You just have to wait while they tear it apart," Jerry said. "Sometimes you just want to say, 'Forget about the money; just leave.'"

Recently vacated apartment on Delmar Avenue

"Don't get me wrong. I don't rent mansions," Jerry said. "I buy properties that are going to be condemned and fix them up."

"But I think I am providing a service. I offer needed low-income housing in what would otherwise be a boarded-up building. And I pay taxes, lots of taxes."

"I play by all the rules. All the apartments are inspected by the building inspector, the electrical inspector, and the plumbing inspector and I get occupancy permits. I keep my property up."

"I'm not saying there are no bad landlords. I know there are. They are the ones whose buildings I buy."

"The building on Benton where I got the citation was one that had been allowed to go to heck. We just got it emptied and are in the process of fixing it."

"I talked to the city about hauling off the junk and was told by someone there was no problem. Then I got a citation. Well, I'll go to court and I guess I'll have to pay the fine. But I think I should have some way to punish the tenants as well."

Jacqueline said the $21,200 they will have to put into the inside of the building on Delmar is money they could have put into fixing up the outside of the building.

"We'd love for it to look like that one down the street. Her place always looks so good," she said.

"This was our first building — it was our baby. When we bought it, we were renters ourselves. It really hurts to see what they've done to it."

'Hot spots' complicate planning by would-be travelers

Where to go on a late summer/early fall vacation trip abroad?

In ancient times, you might have considered one or more of the Seven Wonders of the World:

- The Egyptian pyramids.
- The hanging gardens of Babylon.
- The Mausoleum at Halicarnassus.
- The temple of Artemis at Ephesus.
- The Colossus of Rhodes.
- The statue of Zeus by Phidias at Olympia.
- The Pharos or lighthouse at Alexandria.

MOST OF THESE attractions no longer exist, but we had made tentative plans to see the pyramids this year.

Travel authorities made it sound incredibly tempting:

- Breathtaking contrasts abound in the Middle East, lands where the earliest chapters of mankind's history are bound by the glamour and excitement of the 20th century.
- Aswan: Botanical gardens,

"PICTURE DIVING into a sparkling swimming pool within sight of the Pyramids of Giza...."

"In Egypt, you'll experience a magical meeting with a culture 5,000 years old as you cruise beneath a cloudless blue sky on the life-giving Nile...."

"Or peer into the mysterious depths of the temple at Abu Simbel...."

Note that Egypt is one of the most inexpensive countries to visit, and how could anyone resist?

A TYPICAL TOUR involving both land travel and a cruise ship includes Giza's famous Pyramids and Sphinx and visits to:

- Memphis: Ramses II statue and Alabaster Sphinx.
- Sakkara: Step Pyramid, oldest in the world.
- Luxor: Valley of the Kings and the Temple of Karnak, plus the temples at Esna, Edfu, Kom-Ombo and Philae.
- Aswan: Botanical gardens,

Winter wonderland

By Bill Winter

Aga Khan Mausoleum and the High Dam at Aswan.

Cairo: The Citadel, Alabaster Mosque, Sultan Hassan Mosque and Egyptian Museum.

IT ALL SOUNDS attractive but only one of the families we talked to gave the Nile area a solid recommendation.

All the others said Egypt is dirty and unsanitary, that even the bottled water is unsafe, that the desert heat is difficult to cope with, and that you probably would need to begin taking anti-malaria and other medicines several weeks before you go there.

Rightly or wrongly, we voted against the wonders of that part of the world and began focusing on a younger nation. One where democracy flourishes. Israel.

"IMAGINE SIPPING your morning coffee while gazing over the beautiful walls of Jerusalem...."

"Throughout Israel, the joyous spirit of the Israeli people will enchant you...."

"Your memories of the Holy Lands — the Galilee's vale of milk and honey, the humble Grotto of the Nativity, Bethlehem, the golden domes of Haifa's Shrine — will never fade...."

BRINGING VIVID LIFE to events and places told about in the Bible, such travel would be inspiring as well as informative, we concluded. One of the tour includes:

- East Jerusalem: The Western Wall and the Dome of the Rock.
- Bethlehem: The Church of the Nativity.
- The Dead Sea Area: The Qumran Caves and a cable-car to the fortifications at Masada.
- Jordan Valley: Nazareth, excavations at Megiddo.
- Sea of Galilee: Tiberias, Capernaum, Tabgha and the Mount of Beatitudes.
- Safed: Synagogues.
- Kibbutz: (Overnight stay).
- Acre: Crusader fortifications.
- Haifa: Persian Gardens and the Baha'i Shrine.
- But suddenly....

BANNER HEADLINES on front pages around the globe told of Israel's capture of a terrorist leader in Lebanon, the reported hanging of a U.S. Marine Corps colonel by terrorists in Lebanon, American warships' rapid voyages to the vicinity of Iran, renewed efforts to free Middle East hostages and other fast-moving developments.

We decided reluctantly against a visit to the Holy Lands at this time.

This left unanswered the question of an overseas destination. We waited a few days later, but will wait until our return to talk about it.

Travel, as they say, is not only fun but also broadens one's knowledge (and sometimes one's waistline).

But it obviously is much simpler and a lot more enjoyable when the location is not a target of terrorism or a region where military forces are on emergency alert.

Back Simon's violence bill

For too long, congressmen have placed censorship concerns over common sense when it comes to what children are allowed to see on TV. But a bill from U.S. Sen. Paul Simon could change the television picture.

Simon's four-year effort to reduce television violence by allowing networks to negotiate industry standards was approved by the U.S. House Aug. 1.

Because the Senate approved the bill several months ago, only approval of a House-Senate conference committee and President Bush is required for a new law.

The bill would waive antitrust laws for three years so industry executives could develop voluntary guidelines on violence in non-news broadcasts and cable shows.

Simon has worked for four years to correct a problem that has existed for longer — TV violence and how it affects aggressive behavior in children. One doesn't need to look far to see the way youths have changed in America. They have grown increasingly hardened to violence. In most instances it is never manifested in a harmful way, but who can tell when that bubble will break?

The American Civil Liberties Union and House members from both parties have opposed the bill, claiming it could lead to further "censorships." But is cleaning up the television airwaves pumped into our homes really censorship? True, we can opt not to buy cable programming, but we don't have much choice with free TV. And the persons who argue that viewers can always "just change the channel" obviously don't know anything about children.

Considering its willingness to listen to consumers who have threatened commercial product boycotts, the TV industry may be on the way to imposing guidelines that are acceptable to them, and also to those who are concerned with the growing trend of violence in America.

Quad City area still growing

Oaklawn subdivision, Lueders Park Estates, Westmoreland Drive, Maryville Road ... No list could be complete, but such neighborhoods reflect the increasing diversity of Granite City residential areas.

Now, ground has been broken for the Legacy Golf Course and a related residential development that the owners say will compete with the best in such upland Madison County communities as Edwardsville, Glen Carbon and Collinsville.

It is everyone's right to reside where he or she wishes, but it is undeniable that growing municipalities like Granite City and Pontoon Beach are well located for many purposes, including housing those who commute to St. Louis and St. Louis County.

Advantages include driving west in the morning, avoiding sunlight in drivers' eyes and bypassing much of the traffic congestion, and driving east in the evening, with similar visual and traffic benefits.

For those who work in the Quad City area, spending less time on highways can mean more opportunities for leisure activities and reduced exposure to the hazards associated with modern-day automobile travel.

The 200-acre Legacy project planned by the Engelke family will turn the need for storm drainage into a plus: the design includes a network of six lakes. Along with an 18-hole golf layout and 134 home sites, there will be a banquet center/restaurant and a minimum-care retirement facility.

In addition to such occurrences as Pontoon Beach officials' decision to extend Pontoon Road east of its terminus at Illinois 111, and their annexation of three Interstate 255 intersection, the Legacy project demonstrates that the Quad City area is not as hemmed-in as it might have seemed.

Sun will shine from local site

Plans announced by the St. Louis Sun were a natural for inclusion in yesterday's Granite City Journal, the new daily newspaper that will be published starting Sept. 25 will be sold in Metro East as well as in St. Louis and St. Louis County, Jefferson and St. Charles counties, Ingersoll Publications Co. owns both the Sun and the Suburban Journals, which include the Press-Record-Journal.

And the press conference that was covered in the article became even more of a local story when it was revealed that the Sun will be printed not only in a St. Louis printing plant but also in a new one to be established in the Northgate industrial area on Illinois 3 near Interstate 270.

The Journals have agreed to purchase a 32,400-square-foot building here to expand the Sun's printing capabilities. The Sun's Illinois copies will be produced here by Jan. 15, it was announced by Ralph Ingersoll II, chairman and editor-in-chief.

Fight back against drug abuse

There is widespread hope that the "Fighting Back" program launched Tuesday can qualify for funding through the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation. An intensive effort is planned to reduce drug and alcohol abuse throughout Madison County. Led by a special task force, it will utilize the talents of labor, business, government, education, churches and service agencies.

Problems associated with such abuse have become so severe that an all-out corrective attempt is justified. We encourage all who can help to do so.

As one of the speakers said, "Get involved. This is everyone's problem. This is your fight."

Letters

Again analyzes Costello vote

To the editor:

In June, I wrote the Press-Record regarding the accountability of votes cast by Cong. Jerry Costello in the House of Representatives.

On July 20, Costello wrote explaining his vote was simply on a procedural matter and accusing my letter of being a "partisan gimmick." Costello not only missed the point but used complicated procedural rules to mask his vote.

He explains this vote was not about "repealing Section 89" but "to order the previous question." He invites me to read the Congressional Record to find the vote's true purpose.

What he fails to explain is that many procedural votes have a purpose, which are not often explained in the official record.

In this vote, Cong. Gekas offered a motion which would have allowed further debate so that he could later offer another amendment to repeal Section 89 of the tax code.

Gekas openly announced his intention at the time. Even the chief Democratic opponent to Section 89, Rep. LaFalce, later admitted the vote was an effort to permit an amendment to repeal Section 89.

I was outside the House floor at this time. Everyone knew the intention of the Gekas motion and the House Democratic leadership even posted guards at the door instructing Democratic members how to vote.

The motion was made by a Republican, however, and the Democrats simply could not allow such disobedience.

I do agree with Costello's public position on Section 89. He states, "Section 89 needs to be revised," though he earlier supported efforts to repeal the law.

When given the opportunity to do that, Costello folded under pressure by Democratic leaders and failed to support a measure which would have led to a vote to repeal Section 89. The House has since taken significant steps to revisit the Section 89 issue.

If all of this sounds confusing, don't be surprised. For years, congressmen in both parties have developed complicated rules to disguise their votes and make themselves less accountable for their actions.

New members, like Costello, have an opportunity to do what their senior colleagues have forgotten: Vote their convictions and not just the party line — and explain their votes without hiding behind confusing rules. It was this point I was trying to convey — a point Costello completely missed.

Tax hikes allow improved services

To the editor:

Although it has been a month since the Legislature adjourned, we are still reading letters from individuals who are upset by the tax package approved in the last days of the session.

Nobody likes to pay higher taxes; however, we live in a country where we hold societal responsibilities dear.

Among these are public education, strong and responsible municipal government and a safe and convenient transportation system. Regardless of whether we view these as rights, needs or conveniences, they all cost money.

And our system of government has elected to pay for them through taxation of the citizens of the state.

Aside from easing transportation and providing children with free education, this tax package will provide countless jobs for Illinois residents and will boost the economy of the state. If Illinois is to continue its growth, it must have an infrastructure and services to support an influx of new business and the workforce it brings with it.

It is interesting to note that countless letters to the editor which have complained about the tax package have been printed alongside an equal number of complaints about the limited current resources: inadequate roads and sidewalks; insufficient services for the elderly and mentally ill; high school graduates who cannot read well enough to get a job; problems with parking, garbage collection and traffic lights.

The Illinois AFL-CIO commends the Legislature on its courageous decision to provide funding for those things that we as citizens have indicated we need and want. We hope that everyone who uses these services will remember with their votes the people who made these improvements possible.

Memorial ribbons for police officers

To the editor:

Recently, the Senior Council (Senior Citizens) was kind enough to present to the Granite City Police Department, without cost to the department, Memorial Ribbons for the officers to wear on Police Memorial Day or when a police officer is killed in the line of duty.

This endeavor was greatly appreciated by the department and we want to let the community know that we have a wonderful group of people representing our city through this organization.

Furthermore, we again wish to publicly thank them for the work and thoughtfulness the Senior Council provided for the Granite City Police Department.

Time truly is of the essence

"Time is the one thing we have too much of when we least need it. And not nearly enough when the end arrives ...."

That great quote was from a well-known local author — me. I couldn't find one I liked better in all the quotation books we've got floating around the office, so I made one up. It turns out, I just "didn't have the time" to find the right one.

Time, it seems, is never available when we really want it. When we want to spend it with our children, for instance. Or spouses. Or girlfriends. (Not all of the above, however.)

We flounder in the bog of our day-to-day lives and one week wake up to realize that time has passed us by. Think about it. How many times lately have someone exclaimed, "Boy, time flies!" or "If I just had a little bit of time, I could ..." or "I never have the time anymore."

We say all those things — frequently and probably because of the world in which we live. We try desperately to keep up with the pace and find ourselves milking every second of the day.

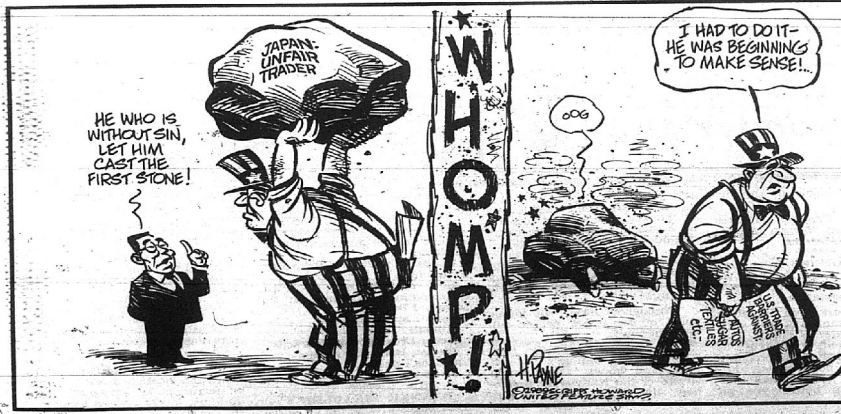

This is probably more true for people, like me, who fall into the classification: "Married, With Children." We need every precious microsecond just to keep on top of the things that must be done. The things we would like to do get placed far down at the bottom of our timed priority list.

Senior citizens, I'm sure, probably feel they have a mixed bag when it comes to time on their hands. For one thing they'll always wonder when their last second of time is going to be. On the other hand, they have far fewer diversions to monopolize the hours of the day.

In my business, time is one of those things that moves far swifter than any living creature. Particularly at deadline.

I'm not really sure, as some theorize, that time is a continuum that will allow the future to merge with the past. If it does, I might be able to catch up on some of the things I've missed. Better yet, I'll do a couple of things differently altogether.

If I have the time.

Notes

Schneider named assistant GM

Adam Schneider of Granite City has been named assistant to the general manager of Florida Studio Theater in Sarasota, Fla. Florida Studio is an Equity company. The performance season runs from January through May. During the "off season" the theater provides a children's theater day camp, acting classes for adults and comedy camps for adults, plus a cabaret show at area nightclubs.

Schneider's duties include fund-raising, publicity and public relations. A 1985 graduate of Granite City High School and a 1989 graduate of Culver-Stockton College, he is the son of Gary and Jan Schneider and the grandson of Betty Townsley, all of Granite City.

Child work recognized

Sharon Lenzi of Granite City has been awarded a Child Development Associate (CDA) Credential in recognition of outstanding work with young children.

The credential was awarded by the Council for Early Childhood Professional Recognition in Washington, D.C. The group represents the early childhood profession through its affiliation with the National Association for the Education of Young Children.

CDA is the only major national effort to improve child care by evaluating and recognizing the skills of individuals providing care. Although the first credential was awarded just 12 years ago, over 33 states already include CDA in child care licensing regulations. Others are considering similar action.

Parents who use child care are especially concerned today about their children's welfare, a spokesman said. Every candidate for the CDA credential is observed working with young children and is evaluated by a team which includes early childhood experts and a parent.

The candidate must demonstrate ability to work with families to develop children's physical and intellectual capabilities in a safe and healthy learning environment.

CDA seeks to have a positive effect on the quality of center-based child care. Its biggest impact may yet occur with its latest emphasis on family day care, the most common form of care for young children, officials said.

Child care staff and parents wanting information on CDA may write: The Council for Early Childhood Professional Recognition, 1718 Connecticut Ave., N.W., Suite 500, Washington, D.C. 20009 or phone 202-265-9090 or 800-424-4310.

Hook's changes management

Indianapolis-based Hook Drugs today announced a management change in its Granite City location. William Ellington has been named assistant manager of the Granite City store at 3216 Nameoki Road.

Hook Drugs is a division of Hook-SuperRx Inc. and operates more than 340 drug stores in Indiana, Ohio, Illinois, Kentucky and Michigan plus 30 convalescent aid and home health care centers in these states as well as Tennessee.

BlueChoice authorized in state

BlueChoice, the health maintenance organization of Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Missouri, has been granted a license to operate in Illinois.

BlueChoice offers health benefits to Missouri members in the counties of Franklin, St. Charles, Gasconade, St. Louis, Jefferson and St. Louis City. With the awarding of the Illinois license, BlueChoice will expand into Madison and St. Clair counties. As the newest Health Maintenance Organization in the St. Louis area, BlueChoice provides health benefits to more than 27,000 members through 325 employer groups.

Wright PR director for 'Sun'

Arthur E. Wright Jr., veteran St. Louis public relations professional, has been named director of public relations of the St. Louis Sun, the new daily newspaper to be launched in September by Ingersoll Publications Co. In addition to his duties with the Sun, Wright also will join the staff of Ingersoll Publications Co.

A St. Louis native, Wright has been general manager of the St. Louis office of Hill and Knowlton since July 1987. Wright personally supervised the firm's work on behalf of the Suburban Journals and the soon-to-open St. Louis Sun. Hill and Knowlton will continue to serve as public relations counsel for the St. Louis Sun, he said.

"We feel extremely fortunate that Art Wright has agreed to join our management team," said Ralph Ingersoll II, chairman of Ingersoll Publications, who also is chairman and editor-in-chief of the Sun.

"We have benefited greatly from his counsel as plans to establish the Sun were in motion and will now be able to call upon his talents on a full-time basis," said Ingersoll.

Wright began his public relations career as an account executive with Fleishman-Hillard Inc. He subsequently became the first executive director of Downtown St. Louis Inc., using his public relations skills and knowledge to help set into motion the massive, multibillion-dollar renaissance of the downtown area. Ingersoll Publications Co., headquartered in Princeton, N.J., publishes 40 daily and more than 150 non-daily newspapers in the United States and Europe, including the 43-edition Suburban Journals of Greater St. Louis. It employs nearly 11,000 people and has annual revenue in excess of $800 million.

Oyster company to open

S&P Oyster Co., a locally-owned seafood restaurant, will open its second location in the fall of 1989 at Winchester Plaza in Fairview Heights. The Forsythe Group, developer of Winchester Plaza, announced the restaurant will lease 7,836 square feet within the shopping center.

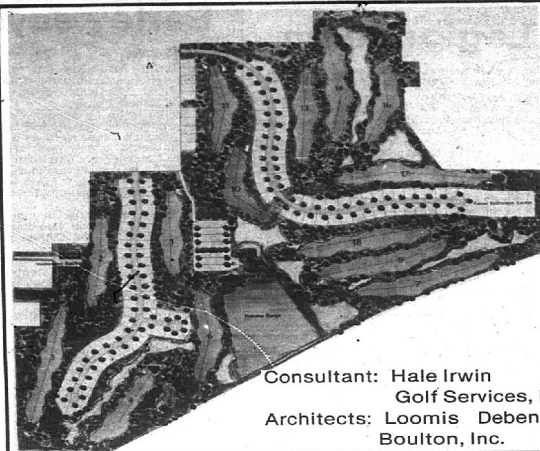

The Forsythe Group also is responsible for the marketing and leasing of the 44,691-square-foot Winchester Plaza, which is now 95 percent leased. The center was opened in mid-1987. The plaza's parking lot can accommodate a total of 302 vehicles.

The new eatery, located at 4660 N. Illinois St. in Fairview Heights, will seat more than 300 diners. The restaurant's interior architecture and decor will be designed by Chiodini Associates, a St. Louis architectural firm.

Pete Nikolaisen, owner of the uptempo restaurant, says he expects the new S&P Oyster Co. location to follow the original restaurant's lead as the largest purveyor of lobster in metropolitan St. Louis. The original location at 14501 Manchester in Manchester, Mo., sells about 1,000 to 1,500 lobsters per week.

"We believe this location will allow us to become the largest vendor of lobster and seafood in southern Illinois. We're projecting sales of 2,000 to 2,500 lobsters per week in our Winchester Plaza location," said Nikolaisen.

In addition to S&P Oyster Co., major tenants within Winchester Plaza include Perfect Fitness Center, Cahoots, formerly Stevie's Steakhouse, and In-Fut, an indoor miniature golf course.

Year-round tax planning help offered

Even though the tax deadline is long gone, the Internal Revenue Service is still offering all kinds of free tax help.

Tax planning is an ongoing process for many people and the IRS says it's never too early to start planning for the 1989 return to be filed next year. Many financial transactions have tax implications and the IRS can help one better understand their options.

Tele-Tax, an automated system of prerecorded tax information, can give a quick overview of a particular subject. Tape 262, for example, introduces a taxpayer to IRAs, or Tape 305 explains interest expenses. Tapes 501 through 506 can help a taxpayer understand and reply to IRS bills, letters and notices. Those who wish to listen to any of 140 Tele-Tax messages should call toll-free 1-800-554-4477 any time.

Taxpayers interested in detailed information on a particular subject can send for one of the more than 100 free booklets published by the IRS. Those who wish to place an order should call toll-free 1-800-424-FORM (3676), Publication 910, "Guide to Free Tax Services," contains a catalog, indexed by subject, of all booklets available.

Those who wish to talk to a tax specialist should call toll-free 1-800-424-0404. That's also the number to call for questions about an IRS bill, letter or notice.

Alton locks, dam removal bids made

Bids have been opened on the multimillion-dollar project of demolishing Locks and Dam 28 at Alton.

Apparent low-bidder on the project was Jimmy A. Patton Contractor Inc. of Little Rock, Ark., at $9,871,000.

There were three other bidders, the second-low bid being nearly $1 million more than the Patton bid.

Actual work on the demolition job will not begin until work on the Mel Price Locks and Dam replacement project reaches the stage at which water can be impounded between the old and new structures.

Good coverage on Legion team

To the editor:

On behalf of Tri-City Post 113 and its members I would like to thank the Press-Record and Dave Whaley for the good job they did on coverage of the American Legion baseball season just concluded.

I would also like to thank Manager Ralph Burnett and Coach Tom Hennrich for their work during the regular season, and an outstanding job of hosting the North Division championship playoffs.

Thanks also to "Nate" Bailey and Kelly Hodges, whose work on the field enabled us to lose only one day due to rain. There were many others who helped. My thanks to them also.

Extraordinary work deserves praise

To the editor:

At times in one's life there comes along a person who does something that is out of the ordinary. It may happen only once or twice that one is able to sit and watch someone who makes a difference in the lives of those around him.

They do it not for personal gain, but simply to do a good deed or make the world better. They ask for no credit and usually don't get much, because most of us don't take the time to acknowledge their deed.

However, I feel that Steve Conkovich, a World War II combat veteran, deserves a great big thank-you from the people of Granite City and the surrounding area. He, along with Joe Holder, the retired fire chief of Granite City, are responsible for the new war memorial dedicated to those who paid the ultimate price to keep our country free.

I don't know Joe Holder personally like I do Steve, but I'm sure that they both are special people. I've watched "Conk" do things to make the memorial a reality.

For four years he stood on street corners, collecting change. He gathered up aluminum cans and sold them. He solicited money from area businesses, not flinching when many said No.

He had a dream and his dream was to see a monument for those who died, in not only World War II but all the recent conflicts. "I'm doing it for boys who didn't come back home," I've heard him say.

Today, there stands a magnificent monument with the names of sons, daughters, husbands and friends inscribed on it. Every one of those names means something to somebody.

I feel that Conk deserves our thanks, as well as does Joe Holder. More importantly, he deserves our respect for being a person who made a difference. Thanks for giving me the opportunity to reflect on what one person in his own way can accomplish.

People can petition against abortion

To the editor:

We Christians would ask all church members in Granite City to sign petitions to eliminate abortion in Granite City.

Christians are to take an active role in eliminating such barbaric practices worldwide.

We have home rule in Granite City that allows us to petition lawfully.

There is no need to be afraid of the mayor and City Council members. They can be removed from public service if the Christian members would just get out of their ivory towers and go to work for Father God Almighty.

Library program praised

To the editor:

I would like to thank the Granite City Public Library for the excellent summer program they have provided for the children of this community.

They coordinated their own summer reading activities with special programs from the Madison County Arts Council.

Not only has this been an educational experience but extremely entertaining for all the participants. It is not an easy task providing such a variety of activities and working with so many people on an individual basis.

I understand over 300 children participated in the program. I have always received tremendous service from the Adult Library and I now see that they give that same quality treatment to the children of Granite City.

With a library like this our youth will feel motivated to read. Thanks to an excellent staff for a fun summer.

Earley says IP letter left out facts

To the editor:

Allow me to respond to James McDonald's recent letter attacking the Illinois Public Action Council. Mr. McDonald is director of "spin control" at Illinois Power.

I should begin by making clear that our recent news conference, exposing IP's June 20 shutdown of 88 industrial customers as a manufactured crisis, was based largely upon rulings issued by the Illinois Commerce Commission in its March 30 decision on IP's prior rate increase request.

In that case the ICC ruled out IP's attempt to lower the capacity ratings for its coal-fired power plants.

The ICC staff testified that the "deratings" were nothing more than an 11th-hour maneuver by IP designed to make the Clinton plant appear to be needed.

Furthermore, the ICC ruled that IP's 20 percent ownership share of the Joppa Stream facility should be included in calculations of the company's total available capacity during the summer peak season.

These actions added 48 megawatts of electricity, the equivalent of an entire power plant, back to IP's system.

The company's sleight of hand, attempting to make available capacity disappear, failed to deceive even the usually pliable ICC.

Nowhere in Mr. McDonald's letter were these facts acknowledged. He didn't even mention the ICC. He would lead your readers to believe that the IPAC dreamed up the availability of this capacity and that our charges have no basis in fact.

He's absolutely wrong and he knows it. The jury is not out on these issues. The ICC has ruled.

On June 20, despite the lack of availability of the Clinton plant and one other unit, IP had a sufficient supply of electricity to meet customer demand.

That the company chose to ignore the availability of perfectly good capacity was a corporate decision that resulted in tens of thousands of workers being sent home for the day, many without pay.

This is how coldblooded our local electric utility has become. No number of nice-nicey television commercials will convince us otherwise.

Mr. McDonald concludes his missive with the suggestion that reporters for and readers of this newspaper sharply question the accuracy and credibility of figures produced by IPAC.

We accept that challenge and relish the opportunity. We ask only that reporters and readers question just as sharply the endless stream of mendacity flowing from IP headquarters in Decatur.

Home & garden

Well-designed deck brings resort-like luxury to yard

A redwood deck can increase a home's value and provide years of outdoor enjoyment. Whether you build your own deck or work with a professional, it pays to study the basics of redwood deck-building before you start your project, says the California Redwood Association.

Deck planning: Look for ideas and how-to information in magazines and manufacturer's booklets. There also are many excellent books on deck construction that can be found in home centers, libraries and book stores.

Your finished deck should be designed to suit your home, your site and your special needs. For instance, on a sloping site you might want several deck levels or sections to provide both sunny and shady spots and to define activity areas. Redwood fences, screens and trellises can protect you from wind and sun and provide privacy.

If you like to entertain, consider built-in redwood seating, a spa, a barbecue pit or a food and bar counter. Gardening enthusiasts might add a redwood potting bench, planters or cut-outs for trees. Other deck accessories like redwood steps, paths and retaining walls provide a graceful transition to the surrounding yard.

Construction: The knot-textured, garden grades of redwood. Construction Common and Construction Common are good choices for deck projects because of their natural beauty and dimensional stability. The California Redwood Association recommends a redwood heartwood grade like Construction Heart for areas on or near the ground. Redwood heartwood has natural durability and resistance to insects.

Construction Common redwood is a good, economical choice for deck surfaces. It contains both heartwood and sapwood.

The association recommends non-corrosive top-quality, hot-dipped galvanized fasteners for outdoor projects. Aluminum alloy and stainless steel are other good choices for redwood deck nails and hardware.

"For a strong, sturdy deck, it is important to understand the dynamics of deck construction. The major deck components are: footings, posts, beams, joists and decking.

The footings sit on or are partially buried in the ground. Posts are vertical members that rest on the footings and support the beams. Beams support joists, which are usually spaced about 2 feet apart and support the decking, or the surface of the deck.

Each piece of the deck structures is important in carrying the load and distributing the weight evenly. Proper spans — the distance between two supporting members — make for a safe deck and one that feels solid when you walk on it.

You might consider applying the decking — the walking surface of the deck — in a decorative pattern such as diagonal, herringbone or parquet.

Redwood 2-by-4s and 2-by-6s are most often used for decking. Buy 16-penny box nails for 2-inch deck boards and use one nail per joist in a staggered pattern.

Overnailing — can cause the boards to split as they shrink and swell. Nail at a slight angle for maximum holding power, and pre-drill nail holes at the end of decking to avoid splitting while nailing. Remember to leave about 1/8 inch as a space between deck boards for drainage. You can use 16-penny nails as spacers.

Redwood deck finishes:

Finishes will enhance the performance of any exterior wood project, so it is a good idea to coat all surfaces of wood with a water-repellent finish before installation.

Recommended deck finishes include the following:

Water repellents: Two coats of a clear water-repellent containing a mildewicide will permit the beauty of the wood to show through while providing protection from moisture and dirt.

Bleaches: Unfinished redwood darkens, then weathers to a silvery driftwood gray color. To achieve an immediate weathered appearance, a bleaching oil can be used.

Decking stain: For a lasting redwood color or any other hue, a water-repellent, oil-based stain may be used. Lightly pigmented stains add color without obscuring the grain, allowing a natural appearance.

Varnishes, lacquers and other film-forming finishes are not recommended for outdoor use.

Garden cleanup includes host of jobs

By Robert J. Dingwall
Staff writer

At this time of year, cool weather always gets a warm welcome from gardeners and other people who work outside.

Many of the annuals that have become leggy such as petunias benefit from heavy cutting-back. I remove up to about half (in terms of height) of the current growth. Then, to spur growth and flowering, I feed plants with a liquid fertilizer. Large plantings are best treated by doing the cutting back needed on each plant at two different times, a couple weeks apart. By focusing on just half the plant each time, flowering is never totally interrupted.

Perennials that have stopped flowering may be cut back heavily and some, such as coreopsis and the veronicas, will benefit if older flower stocks are removed. This will encourage new shoots with buds to form and develop. Some of the areas that will not return to flowering this season may be sown directly with seed of such annuals as marigolds, zinnias and cosmos. These annuals will germinate readily and produce excellent cut-flower material in four to six weeks.

This is also a good time to start developing these areas for next year, or other areas where more color is needed, by planting seed of perennials. This seed may be sown immediately.

As time permitted, the old compost pile was cleaned out and all available material added to areas that could be reworked for planting fall vegetables, perennials and bulbs. Superphosphate was incorporated into the soil to encourage good root development on the new plants. Material that had not decomposed fully was added to the new pile along with the trimmings from perennials, vegetable tops and weeds. The new pile will need to be watered weekly to help encourage decomposition.

TOM HANKS butts heads with his partner Hooch in "Turner & Hooch."

Hanks milks canine script; pooch drools gallons on cue

Tom Hanks is an actor who will take on anything. He seems to delight in roles most young leading men wouldn't touch.

Hanks has played a little boy ("Big") and received an Academy Award nomination for his effort. He has been acclaimed for portraying such diverse characters as a stand-up comic ("Punchline") and a produce merchant who falls for a mermaid ("Splash"). He now is shooting a film for Warner Brothers in which he plays a guy who single-handedly takes on a volcano.

In his just-released film from Touchstone Pictures, "Turner & Hooch," Hanks subdues another role that would blow away lesser talents. He plays a police investigator who becomes best friends with a dog. He now is shooting a film for Warner Brothers in which he plays a guy who single-handedly takes on a volcano.

In his just-released film from Touchstone Pictures, "Turner & Hooch," Hanks plays a police investigator from the quiet California coastal community of Cypress Beach who becomes best friends with a large, ugly junkyard dog named Hooch.

Hooch produces foamy, white, dripping saliva by the gallon. In one scene, Hanks' character, Scott Turner, tells Hooch, "It looks like you swallowed a tennis shoe and the laces still are hanging out."

The screenplay of "Turner & Hooch" (credited to a team of five writers — dog movies are tough to write) has Turner stumbling into a murder investigation of Hooch's former owner, an old man who runs a salvage business.

Hooch is the only one to have seen the murderer, but the dog's not talking. Only days away from leaving Cypress Beach for a new job as a police detective in Bakersfield, Turner decides to stay on the job.

Hooch is the only one to have seen the murderer, but the dog's not talking. Only days away from leaving Cypress Beach for a new job as a police detective in Bakersfield, Turner decides to stay on the job one more week so he can solve the murder case. He feels compelled to do so because of his previous friendship with the murder victim. Aiding Turner is his detective sidekick David, played engagingly by Reginald VelJohnson.

Turner's love interest in "Turner & Hooch" played by Mare Winningham, is a local veterinarian. While Turner is falling for the vet, the vet's colleague is falling for Hooch so he can solve the murder case. He feels compelled to do so because of his previous friendship with the murder victim. Aiding Turner is his detective sidekick David, played engagingly by Reginald VelJohnson.

Except for the excess saliva, Hooch was trained to drool on cue. "Turner & Hooch" is an agreeable motion picture primarily because of Tom Hanks. Hanks can act with anybody, including a homely pooch. He manages to milk this wandering script for more comedic substance than it really contains.

The resolution of "Turner & Hooch" is pleasant and somewhat predictable. The film's violence and dramatic elements are soft-peddled so kids can enjoy it with adults.

Rated PG (language). Running time: 98 minutes.

Showing at Cottonwood, Mid Rivers, Clarkson, Des Peres, Eureka, Halls Ferry, Kenrick, Ronnie's, St. Charles, Union Station, St. Clair, 66 Drive-In, Northwest Square and Galleria.

If I ran the video world, I'd make a few changes

Dr. Seuss once wrote a bedtime narcotic called "If I Ran the Zoo," in which Young Gerald McGrew dreamed of showing off all kinds of new animals—from 10-footed lions to sherbet-striped woolly gnus.

Well, after years of punching out this video column, I'd like to share my dream with you.

If I ran the video world, clerks would know something about movies, and any desk jockey (like the one I met in Brooklyn, N.Y.) who thinks Peter O'Toole is a porn star would be fired.

If I ran the video world, stores would stock enough copies of blockbusters such as "Twins" (1988, MCA, $29.98) to meet the demand, or else Arnold would visit them while they're brushing their teeth. (Hey, it's my dream.)

If I ran the video world, copies of movie reference books would hang like grapes from shelves to provide the information lacking on those deception-filled cassette boxes.

I'm tired of being lied to. You pick up a video box and you feel like Richard Nixon is talking to you. "Howard the Duck" is one of the funniest movies of the year. Gimme a break. I want there's a drawing of a spectacularly beautiful woman wearing sunglasses, and you rent the tape and the starlet looks like Herve Villechaise.

If I ran the video world, video stores would alphabetize titles within categories for easy tracking; they would have a dozen offbeat Best Bets written out on a chalk board to help people beat Video Indecision.

And they would carry far fewer cheap sleaze movies starring giant drills and alligators, and fewer "Faces of Death" (MPI, withdrawn). Fewer, but still a couple of copies because—even though like everybody else I know I'm right—I don't believe in censorship.

And local governments would back off from legislating what stores can and can't carry. Just don't rent "Death Jockstrap" if you don't want to see it. (All tapes should have a rating, however.) The cornerstone of home video (and America) is freedom of choice.

If I ran the video stores, every hit title would wind up for sale in the used tape bin for $9.95 each about two months after release.

Home Video

By Richard Zacks

And the overhead monitors wouldn't show Madonna or Michael Jackson more than once an hour.

The stores wouldn't buy multiple copies of an absolutely horrendous movie like "Midnight Cop" (1989, Vidmark, $79.98) just because the distributor is giving out free 6-foot-tall, semi-naked Morgan Fairchild cardboard standees.

And stores would all become superstores with at least 5,000 different video titles, including oldies, kiddie, sports, how-to and weird.

Above all, I would have video stores seek out those great offbeat non-movie tapes. (More than 80 percent of all rentals are movies; home video instead of becoming a great new creative force, has turned into a Xerox medium, just copying films.)

I would have them seek out some of the great original programming that has surfaced in the public and the stores.

If I ran the video stores, I would carry tapes like "Air Jordan" (1989, CBS/Fox, $19.98) and kids' singalongs like "Zip-A-Dee-Do-Do" (Disney, $14.98) that teach and baby-sit at the same time. I would shine a spotlight on offbeat comedy fare like "Federal Follies" (Brookville, $24.95, 800-327-FILM), a collection of unintentionally hilarious U.S. military training films. Great to show at parties.

I would even push select howtos. Joan Lunden's "Your Newborn Baby" (Video Gift, 800-326-7002, $19.95) helped my daughter survive the first few months of life without being dropped on her head. She even got a few baths. And "Playboy's Art of Sensual Massage" (Video Gift, $19.95) with its clear unembarrassed demonstrations—made the life of her two-wage-earning parents more than bearable.

If I ran the video world, I would help spread the gospel of travel videos that preview a destination and mark a big step forward over the printed brochure.

And I would have a jam-packed standup comedy section: Steven Wright, Emo Philips, Robin Williams and early Richard Pryor.

My dream video store would be incredibly exciting—better even than Disney or World. Because on its shelves would be the best in entertainment, comedy, kidvid, comedy—and all of it portable.

For the price of a grilled cheese sandwich, you can bring home Marilyn Monroe or Kermit the Frog or Harrison Ford. The VCR allows you to hit the bathroom without missing out on "Rosebud" clues and allows you to replay shower scenes.

If I ran the video world, weird comedy would be king and violence would be out and all tapes would have honest mini-reviews on the box. "National Lampoon's Animal House" and "Annie Hall" would rent for free on alternate Tuesdays.

If I ran the video world, I'd make a few changes. That's what I'd do.

ONE FOOT CLOSER: The second footprint, representing a total of $10,000, on the Fitness Trail tote board at the Wilson Park entrance at 27th Street and Delmar Avenue is painted Monday. Steve Kessel, director of parks and recreation for the Granite City Park District, does the honors as Jim Schmedake, chairman of the Fitness Trail fund drive, watches. The fund has a goal of $80,000, necessary to pave the 1.4-mile course on the perimeter of the park. Donations to the Wilson Park Fitness Trail can be made in care of the Granite City Park District, Benton Street and Oregon Avenue.

REMNANTS OF FIRE. Granite City firefighters work on the roof at Marshall Brooks' Cabinet Shop building, 1235 Edwardsville Road, where an Aug. 1 fire caused an estimated $20,000 damage. The blaze started in the kitchen cabinets of an apartment at the rear of the building, occupied by James Gaddy, and spread to a bathroom, living room, bedroom and roof, authorities said. Origin of the fire was unknown.

HELPING HAND. David Culver of Project Head Start in Granite City, left, gets help in applying paint to a stencil design from Jason Brown of Eastwood School in East Alton. The youngsters were among more than 1,200 students attending the Very Special Arts Festival at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

Foster parents needed for teens completing treatment program

Following is an article from the Illinois Department of Children and Family Services.

Foster parents are especially needed for teenagers who have successfully completed a residential treatment program. These teens need a foster family before they are reunited with their biological families or move into an apartment on their own.

John is one of these teens. He was frequently involved with law enforcement and school officials because of curfew and truancy violations. His resentment of authority and displays of anger included throwing things and shouting. Eventually, this led his parents to admit that they were unable to control his behavior.

When John was 14 years old, he was placed in a foster home. Unfortunately, the foster parents were also unable to control his behavior by the usual means of rewards and withholding privileges. They feared his outbursts of anger and his truancy violations were causing the family extreme anxiety and loss of sleep. After six months, the foster parents asked that he be moved.

A group home was selected for John which provided counseling and therapy to help him learn appropriate ways to express his anger. John has been in the group home for one year and now exhibits some respect for authority and rarely displays his temper. He is an enthusiastic student in a special class where his work is approximately two years behind that of his peers. He is ready for a foster home.

In order to keep John from slipping into his old habits, he needs foster parents who have had considerable experience and training in managing teens with difficult behaviors.

The Illinois Department of Children and Family Services provides monthly board payment to help foster parents meet the expenses of caring for a youngster. Medical, dental and other special expenses are also paid by the state.

If you are interested in a teen like John, or in foster care in general, you may contact Jeannette Rettle at (618) 676-8865 or call toll-free, 1-800-624-KIDS.

DOD spent $86 million in county

WASHINGTON — The Department of Defense spent more than $86 million in Madison County last year.

But more than 25 percent of the work was performed by firms based outside the county, according to statistics compiled by the Federal Data Procurement Center.

Granite City firms were paid $1.4 million by the DOD, primarily for construction work at the Charles Melvin Price Support Center, the former Army depot in Granite City.

Nearly half of all defense contracts in the county went to an Alton-based firm for its work on the Lock and Dam 26 replacement project on the Mississippi river. The Lock 26 Constructors, an Alton-based company, netted $42.5 million in contracts, all from the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

The East Alton-based Olin Co. was the second largest recipient of defense contracts in the county, bringing in $15.5 million almost entirely from munitions production.

A St. Louis-based firm, C. Hall Contracting Co., performed $9.7 million worth of construction for an on-base family housing project at the Charles Melvin Price Support Center.

New GCHS soccer field being considered

By Dave Whaley
Executive sports editor

GRANITE CITY — Plans are in the preliminary stage for the Warriors boys and girls soccer teams to have their own lighted field.

A motion was approved at Tuesday's District 9 board meeting for Ron Landman, director of buildings and grounds, to look into a proposal for the field to be built on a site just east of Memorial Stadium, the present practice field for football.

Although it is hoped by some that the field would be ready for the girls season next spring, Landman said that would be all but impossible.

"It's kind of tough to grow sod in the winter," he said. "And there is really a lot to consider with drainage and many other things. I've been authorized to look into the matter as a project. And it's certainly something we would like to get done as soon as possible. I agree that the soccer program certainly deserves something. But it's still very early in the planning stages."

The $50,000 the school district receives this year from Belleville Area College on the sale of North High School (now GCHS) has been allocated to the building fund for the project. But Landman said he doesn't know yet how much the project would cost.

"The big thing would be getting the lights up," he said. "We could use the poles for the football field and put lights there, then it would be a matter of getting three poles up on the other side of the field. And we could move the bleachers we use at the (baseball/soccer) field now over to the new field."

"It sounds like a positive move for the district, although I don't know all that much about it yet," athletic director Greg Patton said Wednesday. "I think our facilities are good right now, but anything we do to improve is great."

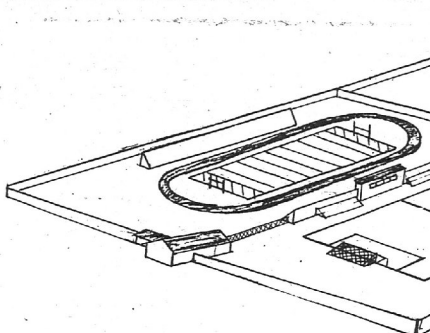

"I personally would like to see us get AstroTurf on three football fields and play everything there. The upkeep would be minimal, but I have no idea what that would cost."

The idea for the new field was pushed by board member Mack Johnson. Johnson was out of town Wednesday, but his wife Vicki said he was very enthusiastic about the project.

"We have a daughter who will be a freshman this year," she said. "So we have some personal interest there. We like to take our kids out to the high school games to give them an idea of what it will be like. But it was tough to go to the girls games because they were in the afternoon while I was still working."

"I know some of the girls on the team last year would have preferred to have a lighted field so they could play night games where their parents could come out more often."

The girls have played their games on the old field hockey complex between the high school and Wilson Park. The boys, of course, have since 1973 played on the Gauntlett, which is actually the outfield of the Varsity Field baseball diamond.

"It's been talked about before," said Warriors soccer coach Gene Baker. "Anything that's new and improved is good for the district, of course. But it was soccer people who did the work to put the lights up in the late 1970s, with the help of Babe Champion and Mayor (Paul) Schuler."

"I don't know if we would want to lose the tradition we've built at the field. And I wouldn't want the kids to lose the heritage. I guess I would have mixed feelings."

Since Baker's arrival, the Gauntlett has been the ultimate snakepit for visiting teams as the Warriors have compiled an outlandish winning percentage there on the way to seven state titles in 16 seasons. The soccer team played at Wilson Park before Baker's arrival in 1973. Since then, baseball and soccer have shared the outfield grass at Varsity Field.

"I don't mind sharing the field with baseball at all," Baker said. "But having baseball played in the summer makes it tough to get the field ready for the fall season. And the situation is the same the other way around."

Patton said in the case of a new soccer field, the football team could practice on what is now the freshman soccer field (located on the left-field fence at Varsity Field), or there is possibly some room near Coolidge Junior High School.

Warriors practice at 12:01 a.m. Monday

GRANITE CITY — High school soccer fans anxiously awaiting the return of the Warriors' won't likely be asleep at the midnight hour Monday.

The District 9 school board on Tuesday approved a request by the soccer team to hold its first practice of the 1989 season at 12:01 a.m. Monday. That is the first day allowed by the Illinois High School Association for fall teams to hold practices.

The practice will be held at the Gauntlett on Pehling Road, the Warriors' home for the past 16 years. Admission will be $1, and proceeds will go toward funding the Warriors' trip to Chicago for the New Trier Tournament on Sept. 9-9.

"Everything went very well last year," said athletic director Greg Patton. "We're in the process of sending out a letter to the residents of that neighborhood letting them know what is happening. But we didn't have any problems to speak of last year."

The Aug. 15, 1988 practice attracted 350 spectators despite temperatures in the high 90s and humidity to match. The Warriors were coming off their 1987 state championship. Despite losing a month to the teachers strike in 1988, Gene Baker's team still managed a 12-4 record on the field (12-13 including forfeits due to the strike) and finished third in the state. Thirteen players from last year's tournament roster — 10 seniors and three juniors — return this season.

"We had a very respectable record last year and I hope we can get even more this year," said Baker. "I would like the players to be at the field as close to 11:30 p.m. as possible. Baker said players should wear white practice outfits. All prospective high school players — freshmen through seniors — should be on hand for the practice. (See MIDNIGHT, Page 4D)

Gundaker has perfect week at Tri-City

By Joe Senter

GRANITE CITY — Kevin Gundaker made a clean sweep Saturday at Tri-City Speedway to finish off a perfect week.

Gundaker, driving the Gundaker Real Estate sponsored Bullitt Chassis Co. car powered by a Gaerte racing engine, was like a puppet on a string as he circled the half-mile track the full 20 laps without a yellow flag. He started on the front row alongside Jim Swank and took the lead at the drop of the green flag and never looked back. He took the checkered flag ahead of Bert Cheatham, Jim

Durbin third, Steve Stevenson fourth, Chris Bargetz fifth and Bill Hay sixth. Gundaker took his heat race while Swank took the other. Mike Wallace dropped out on the first lap of the feature event after developing engine problems. Randy Korte won the final leg of the Miller American Bear Shootout, but John Seels won the overall points race to take home the first place bonus money. Seels was second in the main event with Don Carter third, Rick Bayer fourth and Gary Archambault fifth.

Darren Forrest won the trophy dash followed by Bayer and Paul Humphrey. Mike Cooksey and Bayer won the heat race. Dave Jones won the street stock feature event and gained enough points to claim the bonus money in the Miller American Bear Shootout in that class. Don McElroy Jr. was second and (See GUNDAKER, Page 4D)

Taking the plunge

Jenny Baker diving her way to new heights

By Mike Kelly

GRANITE CITY — The greater challenge, the more fulfilling the accomplishment. And for Jenny Baker, competition in diving has met with success in a short period of time. Baker, who will be a sophomore at Granite City High School this fall, has displayed the natural ability to stand above her peers in a sport that is both demanding and precarious. And her possibilities for achievement at this stage seem unlimited.

Baker, 15, a diver with the Paddlers Swim Club in Granite City, just missed qualifying for this week's National Junior Olympics in Houston. She placed eighth at the regional meet in Indianapolis on July 29, missing the cut by two places. Despite that disappointment, Baker is optimistic about her accomplishments.

"Jenny is very mature for her age. She always knows exactly what to do and when to do it. Jenny has a coach's mentality, which allows her to make snap decisions while the competition is going on."

—Gail McCormick
Paddlers diving coach

"I really feel good about my diving lately," she said. "When I go to a meet I really want to do good, but I don't pressure myself because then you become too involved and serious about it."

"In the competition you are required to perform ten dives, and after it's done there's nothing more you can do. You must learn to take the good with the bad. Forget your bad outings and continue on from there while using the good outings as a stepping stone."

"Showing a positive attitude is very important, because the sport is so mental. I always try to have fun with diving, because if you get upset, you'll wind up getting frustrated and burned out."

A big key to Baker's success has been her mature personality at such a young age. Paddlers Swim Club coach Gail McCormick noticed that right away.

"Jenny is very mature for her age," said McCormick. "She's a thinker up on the board. She always knows exactly what to do and when to do it. Jenny has a coach's mentality, which allows her to make snap decisions while the competition is going on."

"A big advantage for Jenny was going to Ron O'Brien's diving camp in Boca Raton, Fla., during the second week of June. (O'Brien coached Olympic gold medalist Greg Louganis). That opportunity not only improved her confidence, but also gave her little clues on how to make certain improvements."

"The hardest thing I had to overcome was my approach," said Baker. "If you can perfect your approach, then you can perform any dive you want. I've always felt at ease on the diving board. Everything seems to come naturally for me. The key is working on a dive until you perfect a style that allows you to act naturally while feeling comfortable."

"She's a quick learner," said David Ardrey, coach of the Clayton Shaw Park summer diving program in suburban St. Louis, where Baker spends plenty of time practicing. "Jenny's been coached in the proper techniques, but her natural ability seems to take over almost immediately when she performs."

"Diving can be a very frustrating sport because there is no such thing as the perfect dive. But Jenny is a strong fundamentalist and quickly corrects her mistakes. Add on her mental toughness, and she's progressed into a very talented diver."

Another factor in Baker's success was waiting until she turned 14 before competing nationally. This allowed her to make the necessary adjustments while her body matured.

"I'm really glad I waited until now to compete," Baker said. "This way I was able to avoid having to relearn everything because of changes affecting my center of gravity, which is the most important aspect of diving."

"It really doesn't matter how young one is to start diving," (See BAKER, Page 4D)

TIM WARGO and the Miners are in the Metro East Night League playoffs and will play Wednesday in the semifinals, but still have to earn a Mon-Clair League playoff berth.

Miners in playoff scramble

By Dave Whaley
Executive sports editor

The Miners are in the Metro East Night League playoffs, but the scramble continues in the Mon-Clair League.

That's the picture as the pitching-thin Granite City squad prepares for Sunday's Mon-Clair League double-header against Highland at Dal Maxville Field. The Mon-Clair regular season will then end Aug. 20 when East Alton comes to Granite City.

But the Miners have clinched a berth in the Night League playoffs with their 9-5 record. They seem to have a lock on third place, which means they would play the first-place team in a semifinal game next Wednesday on the road at 7:25 p.m. First plays third and second plays fourth that night, with the winners meeting for the league title on Aug. 23.

"There's still the possibility of a tie for that last playoff spot," said J.R. Potthast, president of the Night League. "If that's the case, we might have to delay the start of the playoffs to straighten that out." Granite City won't finish any higher than third. East Alton (10-3) and Sauget (9-3) will finish 1-2, with the Silver Bullets having the inside track on first place. Edwardsville (7-5), Trenton and Millstadt (both 6-5) are in a scramble for the last playoff spot. Millstadt is the only team which could pass Granite City. Tiebreakers are 1) head-to-head competition; 2) runs scored in head-to-head competition; and 3) a one-game playoff. The Miners lost to Sauget twice, so they can't catch the Wizards. But Granite City beat Edwardsville twice in the Night League and outscored Trenton 15-10 in splitting two games. But Millstadt outscored the Miners 12-10 in their two games, which were split.

But Millstadt still has road games at Edwardsville (tonight) and Trenton (Monday). So the most likely scenario has third-place Granite City traveling to first-place East Alton on Wednesday for a semifinal game. But things could change before then.

Things are even more muddled in the Mon-Clair League. The three division winners plus the next five best records make (See MINERS, Page 4D)

Chuck Weiss almost dealt Kahok cagers rare home loss

Chuck Weiss, a hunk of a man if there ever was one, was a four-sport star at Belleville West — now Belleville West — in the late 1940s.

He recently retired from the Granite City school district and is working for local insurance agent Bill Terrell. He did a lot of coaching and officiating during his days as an educator.

Weiss was in high school during one of the area's finest hours in prep sports. The late 1940s produced such prep basketball stars as Sammy Miranda and Ray Sonnenberg, as well as outstanding Warrior athletes like Frank Kraus and Bill Schooley. I ran into Weiss the other day at a local super market and recalled when I saw him make a little basketball history. I was covering a key basketball game between Belleville and Collinsville in 1948 at the old Kahok gym on Vandalia Street. The gym was a snakepit for visiting teams, and it was packed with a capacity crowd of screaming Collinsville fans.

Weiss was one of the original 12-20 players in the area. At that time, believe it or not, high school coaches wouldn't bother with a player much more than 6-0 on the general theory he was probably to clumsy to fit in.

I was covering the game for

Sports Of All Sorts

By Al Barnes

the St. Louis Star-Times because the Kahoks were No. 1 in the state and riding a 25-game winning streak, and Miranda was on a red-hot scoring streak. He got the ball in the final seconds with Collinsville protecting a one-point lead.

Normally, the deadeye Miranda, who was one of the best outside shooters I've ever seen and went on to play at Indiana for Branch McCracken, would have stalled the ball or faked and dribbled in for a sure two-pointer. Good thinking on Miranda's part, but he didn't count on the hard-playing Weiss, who picked Sammy up at the free throw line and zoomed into the air to intercept the layup shot just as it was heading through the basket — something that would be illegal today.

The ball fell into the hands of a Belleville player and the Maroons quickly moved down for a last-second shot. The shot failed and Collinsville remained unbeaten until the Kahoks came to Granite City the next week, where the Warriors scored one of their greatest wins. Joe Martinez won the game for the home team with a last-second shot of his own. That was one of two losses for the Kahoks that year. Collinsville entered the state tournament as odds-on favorites to win, but were upset in the first game by Marion. A Marion sub was making his first start because one of the regulars had the flu. The first time he came across the center line, a Marion fan yelled "shoot the ball." He did and it went in like it had eyes. The same thing happened the next seven times Marion got the ball and the Kahoks never recovered.

But the play by Weiss on Miranda's driving layup proved to be very costly to the Belleville native. The momentum of his body caused him to crash and break his leg, an injury which sidelined him for his senior (1948-49) year.

However, in 1950, the New York Yankees gave him a good bonus and he made it to the AAA level before calling it quits. Weiss had played on the Belleville baseball team in 1948 which beat the Warriors — the eventual state champions — twice in the regular season. Belleville had won state in 1947.

the playoffs. The Miners are 10-14 and hold on to the last playoff spot, a game ahead of Belleville, two games ahead of East St. Louis and O'Fallon and three games ahead of Highland.

The Miners could catch Edwardsville (14-10) only by winning their last four games while the Traders lose four to East Alton and Highland. The Traders, meanwhile, are suddenly only two games behind East Alton and host the Silver Bullets in a big double-header Sunday.

"It's probably going to come down to the last pitch on Aug. 20, and that's the way I want it to be," said league president Mel Patton. "Waterloo has a playoff spot clinched, but they don't have first place quite yet. East Alton, Sauget and Valmeyer are in also, but they could still switch spots."

The Miners' best chance to move up could be catching Brooklyn (12-12). The Robins still have meetings with Sauget and Waterloo, but the Miners would have to pick up three games on Brooklyn since the Robins hold the tiebreaker.

Tiebreakers in the Mon-Clair League are 1) head-to-head competition; 2) record outside the division; 3) record within the division.

"I'm not quite sure what the fourth tiebreaker is," Patton said. "We switched that around this year and I would have to look it up. But the fifth tiebreaker would be a coin flip. I know we don't have anything having to do with runs scored, because that creates a situation where teams can run up the score, and that's not good."

The Miners hold the tiebreaker edge over Belleville based on record outside the division, so a sweep of Highland and a split with East Alton would assure a playoff spot.

But Highland has come on a little recently and East Alton has struggled a little," said Patton. "We just don't know what will happen."

The Mon-Clair league playoffs begin with quarterfinals on Aug. 26. The semifinals are Aug. 27. The finals are best-of-three with the first game Sept. 3, the second game Sept. 4 and the third game (if necessary) Sept. 10. Playoff games are nine innings and begin at 2 p.m. The higher-seeded teams have home-field advantage. In the quarterfinals, it's 1 vs. 8, 2 vs. 7, 3 vs. 6 and 4 vs. 5.

So if the playoffs began now, the No. 8 Miners would travel to No. 1 Waterloo for the quarterfinals. With the Granite City pitching staff in disarray, a meeting with the high-powered Bud bats isn't a pleasant prospect.

•Gundaker—

Steve Meyers third in the feature. Rick Rhoades, McElroy and Kevin Barnett took the heat races.

Gundaker started the week in good fashion by winning the Ken Schrader Red Baron Pizza Shootout promoted by Bob Wente on Aug. 2. After starting in the 22nd spot, Gundaker moved into the lead on the 11th lap. After one restart due to John Prior's car dropping out, Gundaker regained the lead and held on in front of Billy Mover, Pete Parker, Steve Francis, Bert Cheatham, Ray Guss Jr., Paul Schaefer, Schrader, Tom Rients and Swank.

Gundaker, Francis and Parker won the heat races. Guss won the semi-feature.

Seets was the Econo late model feature winner followed by Jim Mogg and Matt Taylor. Terry Miller and Mike Cooksey won the heats while Danny Hanes won the semi-feature.

Bo Smith again blew out his competitors in the modified feature event. He was followed by Gundaker, Ed Dixon, Mike Hammerle and Terry Hall.

There were 77 cars on hand for the third special event promoted by Wente and again there was a standing room crowd on a very hot night. Track owner Harry Alton was very pleased with the turnout and wants to thank everyone who participated and attended.

because as the body begins to mature the individual must be re-educated in the sport," said Fred Newport, the diving coach at the University of Illinois, who already has Baker in mind for a possible scholarship in three years. "Certain aspects such as weight, balance and quickness tend to change. This may cause frustration when the individual must make readjustments in this area. The late start helped Jenny to avoid that."

"Jenny is in a perfect situation right now," said Ardrey. "She's in between that area where her body has reached a level of maturity, but yet is far from deteriorating, which usually happens with later age or motherhood for women divers. She can only get stronger and quicker right now."

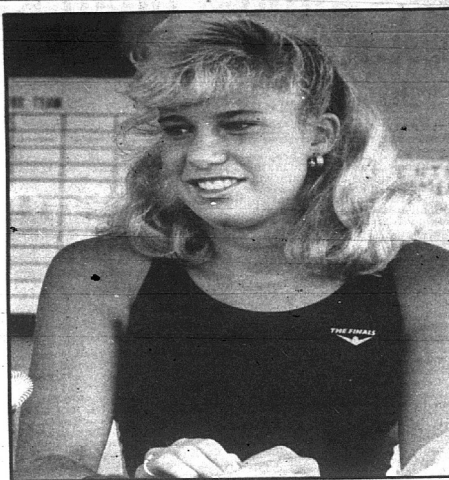

"Jenny has developed the perfect body for a diver," said McCormick. "She's tall, slender and has narrow hips. This allows her to stay very tight going into a dive while hitting the water straight up and down. That's why she's dominated the competition so well. Jenny has a mixture of grace and power in her dive."

But the lack of facilities for divers in southern Illinois could be a drawback. Unlike school districts up north, which feature training facilities for their athletes, Baker must find training areas outside the district to train during the winter months. Such a venture can become both tiring and expensive.

"It's a very expensive business," said Judy Baker, Jenny's mother. "The cost of a coach, the traveling, and getting a place to practice can come to quite a cost I don't even want to add up. But in the long run we hope it pays off by getting Jenny a college scholarship."

Despite the disadvantages, Baker qualified for the state tournament last season.

"It's really tough competing

"I just want to achieve more in the sport. I know I can get better because I have the desire to keep improving, and I've got the right people behind me applying that extra push. Diving is very challenging. It's in my blood, and I love the sport very much."

—Jenny Baker

against the schools up north because we lack the facilities," she said. "When I went to state the board up there threw my timing off because I was only able to train twice a week compared to someone up there who has the facilities within reach every day. "But that's where your positive thinking comes into the picture. You must believe in yourself no matter what the odds are, and always give it your best shot."

"Jenny can help a good college program right now," said Ardrey. "She definitely has the talent, but the lack of facilities could hinder her opportunities of getting into a top 20 school. With so many athletes being thrown into the fire right away these days in college athletics, a school of that caliber will have to ask itself, 'can we give her the time to develop at this level?'"

"The best thing Jenny can do right now is to continue taking advantage of the opportunities she has," said Newport. "The lack of competition could hurt her abilities, but she's a very tough individual. Jenny is very positive about her performance, and she's progressed very well in a short time. Those two odds will help her to blossom once she reaches the collegiate level. It'll really be fun watching her develop in the next three years."

"I'm real serious about my diving," said Baker. "And I hope that some top 20 schools will take the chance on me because of what I've accomplished with limited training facilities and practice time."

"I've really been blessed because of the coaching I've received, and the support my family has given me."

Her father, Mike, is an anesthesiologist at St. Elizabeth Medical Center. Jenny has a brother, David, 19, and a sister, Susie, 7.

"I just want to achieve more in the sport. Deep down inside I know that I can get better because I have the desire to keep improving, and I've got the right people behind me applying that extra push. Diving is very challenging. It's in my blood, and I love the sport very much."

tice, which will last until 1:30 a.m. The players should bring copies of physical exams and parent permission slips.

"The gates will open at 11:30," said Patton. "I think it's a great idea. I know Centralia used to have a midnight practice on the first day of basketball season. But I don't know of any other high schools in the area who have done this in any sport. I'm going to call the TV stations and try to get some coverage there."

Baker said the team's second practice will be held at 11 a.m. Monday.

Fall practices start

The first practice for the Granite City High School golf team will be Aug. 16 at 8 a.m. at the Arlington Golf Course.

Boys and girls interested in participating should report at that time. Golf coach Russ Chappeil reminds all golfers that physicals are required.

Also, freshman volleyball coach Wilma Schulze said the first practice will be Aug. 14 at 9 a.m. in the girls gym. Parent permission slips and physicals are required at that time.

The first meeting for the Warrior cross country team will be at 5 p.m. Aug. 14 in the gym annex. Practice for Dave McClellan's team will begin at 9 a.m. on Aug. 15.

The Home Front

By ROD FLOOD

Drooping plants are signaling distress. Water them as soon as you can. If drought restrictions forbid sprinkling, use a hand-held watering can to target moisture where it's needed most.

Asphalt shingles may get covered with moss, particularly on a shaded north side of the house. Use a kung-fu wash or a bleach solution to remove the moss; cut back trees to let sunlight in.

Need color in a dull kitchen? Take the doors off a closed cabinet so you can show off colorful dishes and pottery.

Circuit breakers and fuses protect appliances from an overload. A ground fault interrupter, on the other hand, protects people; it senses a current leak that might indicate it was flowing to the ground through a person and instantly turns off power.

Congress and several state legislatures are working on ways to help first-time homebuyers enter the market. Many plans include the use of tax-deferred savings like IRAs for down payment.
